Estimate Sputnik Will Stay Up Year

Rocket Shell Speeding Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts at the Naval Research Laboratory estimated Saturday that Russia's satellite Sputnik would stay up for at least a year.

At the same time they said reports were true that the rocket shell up in the sky with Sputnik has lost altitude and is speeding up.

But they added: "Reports that the rocket shell is disintegrating seems highly unlikely at this time."

The statement was issued by Dr. John P. Hagen, director of America's Project Vanguard at the laboratory.

"We estimate the satellite will stay up for at least a year," Dr. Hagen said. He said it appears to remain in a fairly constant orbit with an around-the-world flight period of 96.1 minutes, with the closest point to the earth 170 miles and the most distant 570 miles, and "should remain aloft for some time to come."

Dr. Hagen said the empty rocket shell's density was low compared with the small dense mass of the satellite.

Gets Photograph

One American scientist reported that he got a photograph — faint and blurry — of the rocket that has been accompanying Sputnik on its journeys.

And from London came an estimate that the rocket is 100 times as large as the satellite, which the Russians have described as weighing 184 pounds and measuring 23 inches in diameter.

Dr. J. Alan Hynek of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said at Cambridge, Mass., that the rocket and the cone that helped carry the satellite into its orbit Oct. 4 now appear to be breaking up.

Traveling Junk File

"We may have a traveling junk pile in the sky," he said.

Smithsonian officials had reports from Cambridge and Bedford, Mass., and Ft. Monmouth, N.J., of sightings of three bodies — the satellite itself is the third.

One Bedford sighting reported one of the objects as bright as the planet Jupiter, or almost 100 times brighter than the first sighting in various parts of the world.

Dr. Hynek said this particular brightness may have been caused by the nose cone beginning to tear apart, and added:

Disintegration

"This looks like a terrestrial case of comet disintegration, possibly the beginning of the end as the objects sink lower and feel the drag of denser atmosphere."

Pressure Grows For U.S. To Get Satellite Into Skies At Once

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressures are growing within the Eisenhower administration for the United States to get a satellite into the skies or take some other action to demonstrate its progress in the science of space at the earliest possible moment.

These pressures stem primarily from studies in the State Department and elsewhere which are reported to show that U. S. prestige has not been too badly damaged during the first week of world reaction to Russia's satellite success.

Bad damage probably will result over a period of time, however, some responsible officials say, unless this nation cuts the lag time between the Soviet achievement and its own satellite launching to a minimum.

Alternately, they say, some other demonstration of a spectacular nature in the field of rocketry and missiles would serve the same purpose.

A week after news of the Soviet triumph hit the world, studies based on press reaction and comment abroad and on personal inquiries and observations by American officials in foreign countries have left no doubt in the minds of top authorities here that the event could hardly have made a more powerful impact. The political and diplomatic implications for the future are tremendous.

Having lost the satellite race by officially refusing to recognize it as a contest in the cold war, the United States still has a chance to maintain its prestige largely unimpaired — by not trying to meet fact with explanation and propaganda.

The only thing that will have been the West's possession of the bomb which has deterred and still deters the Soviet Union from open aggression," Macmillan told the Conservative party at its annual meeting.

"Even the most recent developments, however startling, have not altered this strategic fact. It is our will to retaliate with nuclear strength which prevents them from daring to launch their enormous forces against us."

He said Britain will go on working for a disarmament agreement to "free the world from the shadow of the nuclear threat."

"Meanwhile, so long as we have the retaliatory power I do not believe that a mass assault of the Soviet forces upon us is practicable."

Macmillan said the British-U.S. Alliance remained a cornerstone of world peace.

"One of the great though quiet achievements of the past few months has been recognition in London and Washington that we must act together," he said.

"There are plenty of people who are tempted to harp upon and exaggerate our occasional differences. But if they do so, they are willingly or unwillingly playing the Communist game."

"On the unity of purpose and policy of the Commonwealth, Europe and the United States lies the hope — and the only hope — of the free world."

EDUCATIONAL PARADISE

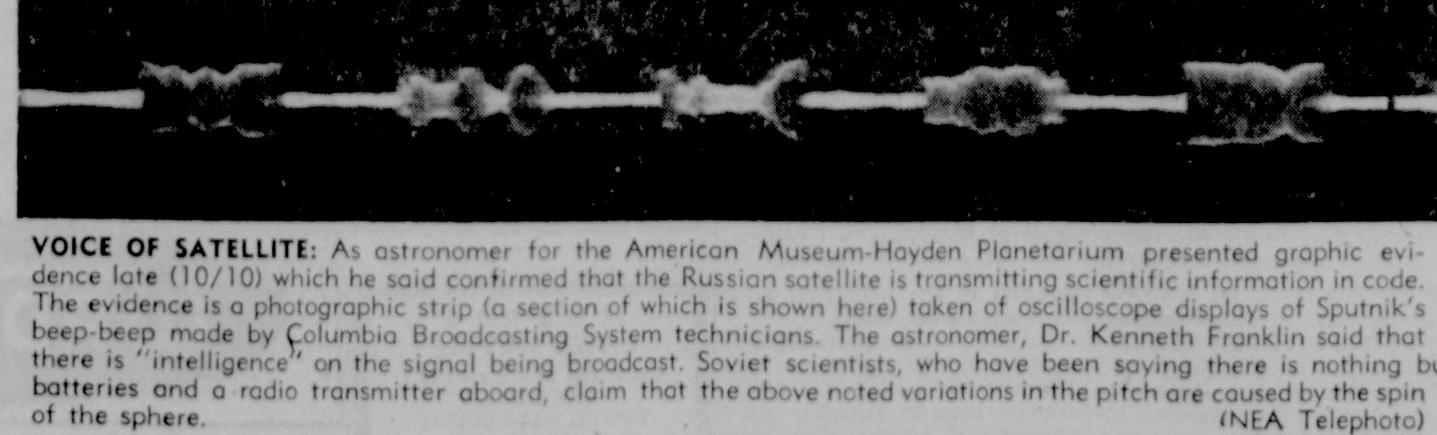

HONOLULU (UPI) — Women outnumbered men two to one at the summer session at the University of Hawaii. There were 2,799 women to 1,478 men.

Non-resident students included 1,057 students from 45 states. There were three students from Alaska.

The average fisherman spends about $90 annually in pursuit of his sport.

Twelve foreign countries were represented by 62 students.

VOICE OF SATELLITE: As astronomer for the American Museum-Hayden Planetarium presented graphic evidence late (10/10) which he said confirmed that the Russian satellite is transmitting scientific information in code. The evidence is a photographic strip (a section of which is shown here) taken of oscilloscope displays of Sputnik's beep-beep made by Columbia Broadcasting System technicians. The astronomer, Dr. Kenneth Franklin said that there is "intelligence" on the signal being broadcast. Soviet scientists, who have been saying there is nothing but batteries and a radio transmitter aboard, claim that the above noted variations in the pitch are caused by the spin (NEA Telephoto)

Little Rock Churches Invoke Divine Aid In Integration Crisis

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Prayers were raised in four-score churches here Saturday invoking divine aid in solving this tension torn city's racial crisis.

Thousands turned out. The day was bright and sunny, with the temperature in the mid-60s.

The 84 participating churches were of Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths. More than a dozen Negro churches took part. Most of the 84 were in Little Rock; a few were in neighboring North Little Rock or elsewhere in the state.

Churchmen of all faiths had joined in arranging the prayer services. They said the purpose was to seek divine help for the preservation of law and order, the casting out of rancor and prejudice and resistance "against unthinking agitators."

An unofficial estimate by the sponsors said 6,000 to 7,000 turned out in response to the sound of church bells in the clear crisp air.

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic diocese said 2,053 attended prayer services at 11 churches of that faith in Pulaski County, which surrounds Little Rock. He described that as about one-third of the aggregate membership.

But if thousands turned out, many more thousands went about their normal secular pursuits.

In the downtown business area, some establishments observed a minute of silent prayer at 11 a.m., the hour set for the services. Many stores offered their employees time off to go to church.

But a reporter who was in one of Little Rock's bigger department stores at 11 o'clock saw no one in the crowd of shoppers and sales persons who took any outward note of the time.

On the streets outside, hundreds were walking, also without taking any apparent notice.

The idea of the prayer services had been endorsed by President Eisenhower, Gov. Orval Faubus and the Little Rock School Board.

All are directly involved in the crisis growing out of the federal integration of nine Negro pupils in previously all-white Central High School.

Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward of Harrington, Maine, said the 96-woman detachment at this U. S. Army port narrowly missed a top "superior" rating.

Three uniforms slightly scorched by too-hot irons and four pairs of slightly off-color shoes cost the detachment the highest mark.

Michael May, 13, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. May, is hospitalized with iron pipe shrapnel wounds in his abdomen, groin, both legs and his right eye, arm and hand. Dennis Hobson, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Hobson, was wounded only in the leg.

Capt. Willard Koepel, of the Police Juvenile Bureau, said the May boy "constructed and detonated the bomb. It was made out of a short piece of pipe filled with gunpowder and mud stuck in both ends."

"I don't like to see a uniform hang," she explained. "A few women who were beginning to bulge a bit were advised to wear girdles."

The May boy told police that the bomb was taken to a church construction site and lit by May. They were well hidden, he said, but when the bomb was slow in exploding May returned to check it. He was about six or seven feet away from it when it went off, according to police.

Koepel said the bomb is similar to one found unexploded last June. He said police are investigating to determine if May made both bombs.

The Hobson boy told police that the bomb was taken to a church construction site and lit by May. They were well hidden, he said, but when the bomb was slow in exploding May returned to check it. He was about six or seven feet away from it when it went off, according to police.

The Soviet Union's success in launching an artificial earth satellite Oct. 4 was taken as proof that it had the intercontinental ballistic missile it had claimed to have last August.

Monday, Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev told a New York Times interviewer his government would be willing to start talks with the United States now on control of such satellites.

TWO FINED ON TRAFFIC CHARGES

Archie Pembroke was fined $5 and costs in the court of Justice Homer Conover on a charge of running a stop sign in South Jacksonville Village. Marshal Orla Thomas was the complainant.

Rowens Hubbard of Bluff was fined $5 and costs in the same court for running a stop sign on Routes 36-54. State Patrolman Charles Batley was complainant.

The young girl was injured while driving a station wagon near New Canton which was struck by another car. She received severe lacerations of the face, broken facial bones and all of her front upper teeth knocked out in addition to three fractured vertebrae and bruises about the body. A young friend, also of New Canton, was a passenger and received a broken arm in the accident. The station wagon was completely caved in on the side the car struck.

The injured girl was removed by ambulance to St. Elizabeth hospital in Hannibal after treatment in Pike county.

Mrs. Harold Willner and her daughter, 1231 Center street, and Miss Shirley Hoots of Jacksonville, in company with Miss Kay Dodds of Springfield, visited the hospitalized girl Friday. She will have to undergo plastic surgery but her condition is regarded as encouraging.

Juvenile Delinquency Is Issue In New York's Contest For Mayor

NEW YORK (P) — The nation's largest city will elect a mayor Nov. 5 with something new in campaign issues—juvenile delinquency.

Such incidents as a shooting in a school and the fights or "rumble" of youthful street gangs have been seized upon by the Republicans in their effort to unseat Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The Republican candidate is Robert K. Christenberry, a Southern-born hotel executive and former chairman of the State Athletic Commission.

Christenberry dramatized the issue a few days ago by rushing to a high school minutes after a 16-year-old boy in a music class there shot and wounded a 16-year-old youth.

The Republican took the occasion to declare that Wagner is "failing to do anything" about delinquency.

Wagner's position is that all possible is being done to cope with the problem.

The post the two "Bobs" are fighting for has sometimes been called the second in importance in the nation—after the presidency—and is one of the country's highest paid political jobs.

The mayor of New York gets $40,000 salary, $25,000 for expenses, extra money for official entertaining, the use of Gracie Mansion as a home, a city limousine and a chauffeur.

Despite these advantages, the mayoralty has its disadvantages. It has been known as a dead end of politics. No New York mayor ever rose to be president despite the prominence of the office. Popular mayors have become enmeshed in accusations of wrongdoing and faded into virtual obscurity.

The "hex" seemed to have hit Marcell Taft of Sangamo chapter, Rochester, was escorted and after introduction the soloist sang "Everywhere You Go," being guest of honor, and Virginia Phillips of Pawnee chapter was guest in the East.

After the meeting refreshments of angel food cake decorated with a red rose and punch were served from attractive tables. The nut cups were green and white cups and saucers crocheted by the incoming worthy matron, Erma Carney.

Letters were read from Lamba chapter and Tau chapter inviting Alpha Phi members to luncheons to be held Oct. 26, and Nov. 16. The November meeting is to be a joint meeting with Tau at Havana.

An overview of the year's program was given by the program chairman, Violet Auwarter.

Blanche Spall, project chairman, reported on the plans for the year. The chapter will continue taking magazines to the State Hospital and in December will take jewelry and scarves to be used as gifts for the women patients. Other projects are to be considered later.

Lucille Hagan and Margaret Faye Hopper reported on the Northeast Regional meeting they attended in Washington, D. C. in July, and the state presidents' meeting held the 13th and 14th of September at Allerton Park.

The though for the day was given by Ann Long.

The next meeting of Alpha Phi will be in Havana with Tau chapter the hostess chapter, on Nov. 16.

Dr. Mary L. Newman Speaks To Junior Woman's Club On Outstanding Women In The Field Of Medicine

The October meeting of the Junior Woman's Club was held Thursday evening, Oct. 10, at the Dunlap hotel. The overflow crowd filled the banquet room with a good number having to be accommodated in an adjoining dining room. Highlights for the program were initiation of new members and a talk by Dr. Mary Louise Newman on "Women of the World," an appropriate discourse for this civic and social group of young women.

The invocation before the dinner was offered by Shirley Hudson and the pledge to the flag led by Virginia Beerup.

Charlotte Peribix, membership chairman, conducted the initiation for the new members whose pictures appear on this page. She was ably assisted by members of her committee. Each of the young ladies repeated the pledge while in a semi-circle formation. Mrs. Mildred Dietrick, transfer by letter from the Concord club, is the assistant junior director for the 20th district, of which Jacksonville is the largest club representative.

Dr. Newman Speaks

Mary Herr, program chairman, presented the speaker, Dr. Newman. She followed the outstanding women in her own profession, the field of medicine. On the national level Dr. Newman told of Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman to enter the then male dominated medical school. Dr. Blackwell, the speaker related, influenced and encouraged Florence Nightengale to enter the nursing field.

On the local level she mentioned the late Dr. Blanche Epler and Dr. Augusta Webster, the latter a prominent Chicago physician and daughter of Dr. G. O. Webster of this city. Dr. Newman revealed that Illinois College in Jacksonville was the first pre-medical school in the state.

The informality of her talk and facts she revealed made the address of intense interest to the group but post-program comments noted she failed to mention herself, Jacksonville's only woman doctor and outstanding in her field of medicine, civic and social activities.

The formal business session was conducted by the club president, Ferol Henry, with the secretary's report by Alice Heaton; corresponding secretary's report, Nancy Orr; treasurer's, Mary Lou Beever.

The Tuetken of Jerseyville, was introduced by Mrs. Henry to the club.

Plans were announced for the Nov. 20 basketball game given by Marietta Vasconcellos in the absence of Marty Gray, chairman of moral and spiritual committee.

All clubs in the 20th district are participating in games to be played by the members. The games are public.

Name Junior Band!

Joyce Roesch, music chairman, reported the band to play at the game now has a name, the result of a contest. The title of Wackie Jackie Juniors, submitted by Betty Mathews, who received the floral centerpiece for her efforts.

Lorna Budlong, public welfare chairman, reported on the parties for the State Hospital being held now in the gym.

Revisions committee chairman Lois Freeman reported the state board has received information of the change of the local club's by-laws, which are now in order.

A motion passed on striking the word "constitution" from by-laws but the contents of the constitution be incorporated therein.

Refreshments of home made ice cream, cake and coffee were served. A white cake decorated with silver numerals "25th" was brought by Mrs. Robert Brasell. The couple also received beautiful gifts.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burrus, Roger and Cheryl; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schutteker and Trudy; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brasell; Mrs. Larry Noble, Randy and Jerry Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Foice Noble and Tom. Another son, Larry Noble, is with the Army in France.

Chapter Honors 50 Years In Star For Miss Minnie Wyatt And Mrs. Elizabeth Bourne

Seventy members of Wilber chapter of officers and members of Wilber chapter, and guests from visiting chapters assembled at the Masonic Temple Oct. 10 to honor 50 year members of Wilber chapter, Miss Minnie Wyatt and Mrs. Elizabeth Bourne.

The presiding officers, Edith and Clyde Landreth, conducted the business session. Regular officers and following substitutes filled stations: associate conductress, Martha June Svob and color bearer, Milton Birdsell.

A colorful and descriptive report of the 63rd session of the Grand Chapter, recently held in Chicago, was read by the worthy matron.

In turn each spoke of the pleasure received from being a member of the order.

Several members were recognized and several expressed pleasure of having enjoyed a delightful evening.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed in the dining room.

The serving table covered with lace cloth and appointed with a crystal bowl of yellow fall flowers, gold candles in crystal holders, white napkins with "Minnie and Elizabeth" in gold.

The honor guests, wearing a gold mums corsage, a gift of the chapter, were escorted, introduced, and greeted with a song "Memories," sung by Lorraine Farrell, accompanied by Inez Canatasy.

MRS. JAMES ARTHUR COBB

Betty Jean Fairfield And James Arthur Cobb Wed In First Baptist Church Last Sunday

Vows between Miss Betty Jean Fairfield and James Arthur Cobb were exchanged in an impressive double ring ceremony performed last Sunday afternoon, October sixth, at the First Baptist church where the pastor, the Reverend Milton Schroeder, officiated.

The former Miss Fairfield is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil D. Fairfield of Modesto and for the past twelve years has made her home with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilson at 423 West Lafayette avenue. Mr. Cobb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cobb, 716 South East street.

Palms and palms were used at the altar with tapers burning in candelabra. Organ selections were played by Dr. Ralph Robbins before the ceremony while ushers, Donald Arthur and a brother of the bride, Donald Fairfield, lighted the candles at the altar. Two numbers, "I Love Thee, Dear" and "Because" were sung by Mrs. Donald Fairfield, sister-in-law of the bride, before the wedding party entered the church.

Mrs. Helen Louise Fairfield, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore pink peau de soie in ballerina length, with matching jacket made with deep cut lapels and fitted sleeves ending just below the elbow. Her semi-picture hat was in the same shade and ornamented in pearls to match her only jewel accessory of earrings. She carried a Colonial styled bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Wears Lace With Tulle

The bride's mother wore navy lace with pink trim and pink carnations and the groom's mother were navy with white carnations. Mrs. Wilson, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Cobb, the groom's grandmother, wore corsages of white carnations to compliment their attire.

Mrs. Richard Wallbaum of Creve Coeur, a sister of the bride, registered guests at the church.

Reception At Hall

The wedding party and families received guests at the church immediately following the ceremony before adjourning to the church Fellowship Hall for a reception.

The serving table was decorated in pink and white with the three tiered cake in the center. Pink and white carnations encircled the base of the cake. Pink tapers rotating in candelabra, and punch bowl were at either end.

The bride's sisters assisted with

Arcadia Woman's Club 'Open Meeting' Oct. 22nd

The Arcadia Woman's Club held its regular meeting at the Arcadia hall Wednesday, October 9.

Mrs. Harold McGinnis opened the meeting with the group singing "America the Beautiful" and followed with the pledge. The club collect was read in unison. Roll call was answered by 23 members giving a health hint. Some interesting ideas were given. Guests present were Mrs. Alonzo Burrus, Mrs. Clifford Burrus and Mrs. Lawrence Mallincoat.

The secretary read a thank you note for flowers the club had sent. The president gave a report to the club on the District Board meeting which she attended. She urged all members to attend the County Meeting Wednesday, October 30, at the Congregational church in Jacksonville. The meeting will start at 2:15 pm. Mrs. McGinnis also announced the Federation Conference meeting to be held in Jerseyville on Friday, October 25, starting at 10:00 a.m. and asked that members try to attend.

The club is proud to have an article appear in the "Illinois Clubwoman Magazine" of one of the Arcadia Club's annual community projects. The news item was submitted by the club's reporter, Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie. The club voted $5.00 to the United Community Fund.

A meeting to organize a Ground Observer Corps will be held in Arcadia at an early date. Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie asked club members if they would assist with the undertaking. More information on this will be released later.

The club voted to donate $5.00 to the Literacy Christian church building fund as a community club project of the club. The business session closed with the club's prayer.

Mrs. Clarence Thompson and Mrs. Jimmie Jones were program leaders. The topic was Health Projects. Mrs. Thompson read an article entitled "Medical Research on Cancer," self explanatory. Mrs. Jones read an article, "Precaution."

The club members instructed secretary Mrs. Irland Thompson to send thank you notes to the Jacksonville Journal and Springfield Journal for feature stories and pictures covering the annual Arcadia Burgoos.

PLAN ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. LLOYD E. SMITH

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Smith of Alexander will be observed with Open House Sunday, October 20, at their home four miles north of Alexander. Friends and relatives are cordially invited to call from two to four in the afternoon and seven to nine in the evening.

Mrs. Smith is the former Twyla Williams, both having resided at Jacksonville before their marriage. They took up residence on their Alexander farm immediately following their wedding and have resided at the same location since that time.

They are the parents of two children, a daughter, Jeanne Ann, at home and a son, Darrell Lloyd, of Alexander. There are two grandsons, Danny and Randy.

Waverly Women Hear Address On Marquette Home

WAVERLY—The regular meeting of the Waverly Woman's Club, held in the American Legion Building last Friday, was well attended. With the president, Mrs. W. A. Doolin, presiding, the meeting opened with the pledge to the flag and the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. John DeRosear, of New Berlin, gave a group of piano numbers and was greatly enjoyed by all. Her selections were "A Carnival Scene," (Paul DuVal); "Wayside Chapel," (Wilson) and "Une Fete A Madrid," (Francis Tome).

The afternoon speaker was C. H. McKinney, superintendent of the Marquette Boys Home near Grafton. Those present were interested in hearing Mr. McKinney tell a number of facts concerning the home.

This home is one of the projects of the State Federation of Woman's clubs. The State Federation financed the building and furnished Lincoln Lodge, the boys' dormitory, in 1950. The home is located on a 70 acre farm at Grafton.

McKinney gave a few opening remarks on the subject of juvenile delinquency, saying it is on the increase. He then went on to say that the boys taken into the Marquette Home are pre-delinquent or neglected children, most of them being from broken homes, and only boys who have a problem in their home communities are accepted. They must be between 8 and 15 years old and in need of group care and training. They must be recommended by the State's Attorney and have legal custody granted by the court of their home county.

Mr. McKinney said there are 14 boys in the home at the present time. He told what it costs to operate the home, and the economies they practice in its management. He described the school life and activities of the boys and the surroundings, which are made as pleasant as possible for them, also the methods of discipline used by those in charge of them.

McKinney then showed a number of pictures taken of the boys in their various activities and of the area surrounding the home, and concluded his part of the program by conducting a question and answer period.

A short business meeting followed the talk. New members recently taken into the club are: Mrs. Gertrude Ryan and daughter, Leona arrived Friday evening from Pomona, California to visit friends relatives in this area. They are staying with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Zeller of Alexander.

The Ryans reside at 1230 West 5th Street in Pomona.

SHOWER GUESTS

Mrs. Stanley Copley and Donna and Mrs. Stella Copley attended a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Carl Kelly at Murrayville on Wednesday. The occasion honored Marilyn Walker who will be married Sunday, Oct. 20, to Merle Kelly.

At the close of the meeting the social committee served cookies, coffee, tea, nuts and candy, and the members enjoyed the social hour.

PAINTINGS ON EXHIBIT

ERWIN H. FOERSTERLING

The paintings of Erwin H. Foersterling, Assistant Professor of Art at MacMurray College, are on exhibit through October at the State University of Iowa, the college announced today.

The exhibition, which includes the painting and sculpture of 100 selected former students, is designed to show their achievements as a result of the university's specialized training in creative fine arts. One of the first schools in the nation to establish a genuine art training curriculum, the university has set a national pattern followed by many leading university art departments.

Foersterling, who received a Master of Fine Arts degree at Iowa, taught basic design and industrial design there, plus managing and designing art exhibitions in Iowa City and Cedar Rapids, before he was appointed to the MacMurray College art staff in 1954.

While at MacMurray, Foersterling has taught basic design, advertising design, interior design, composition, art history, and art appreciation.

He has exhibited his paintings at the following galleries and museums, in addition to the State University of Iowa: Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.; Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit, Mich.; City Museum of St. Louis, Mo.; Kansas City Art Institute; and in many central Illinois city art associations.

Bluffs Women To Sponsor 'Cleaner Town' Campaign

BLUFFS—The Bluffs Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon in the Civic Club room for their October meeting. The meeting opened with the flag pledge led by Mrs. Ione Lee Tappscott and the prayer by Mrs. Edward Albers. Roll call was answered by 30 members who told of a bouquet with meaning, either good deeds or floral.

The president, Mrs. Paul B. Smith, presided at the business session. Reports of various chairmen were made. Mrs. Edward Raft on Americana Home; Mrs. Wendell Brackett, music chairman; Mrs. F. J. Muntman on Gardens; Mrs. Clara Kroencke Indian Welfare; and Mrs. Joe Smith on Veteran's Service. Mrs. H. H. Kilver was unable to attend but material on Mental Health was given and action taken on requests from the Veteran's and Jacksonville State Hospital.

The club voted to participate in the "cleaner town" campaign by voting to sponsor a poster contest for the proper use of trash cans and also to assist in the purchase of such cans. The local Jaycees are sponsoring the "clean-up" with the help of other organizations. Mrs. F. J. Muntman, Mrs. M. C. Parker and Mrs. Oliver Chambers were named to the contest committee.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Floyd Hart spoke briefly of the District Board meeting they attended recently. Mrs. John Pine, District President and member of the local club, spoke of the state project, assisting in the Puerto Rican area in Chicago in helping to secure a part time teacher to the Spanish speaking peoples. The local club voted a contribution to this project.

The ways and means committee heard fund raising suggestions and it was decided to have a chili and pie supper in the near future, the committee to be Mrs. Virgil Coughlin, Mrs. Ethel House and Mrs. Clyde L. Taylor.

Announcement was made of the County Federation meeting to be held Friday, Oct. 11, in the Winchster Baptist church. The Fall Conference will be held in Jernseyville on Oct. 25. Mrs. Donald Mullen is in charge of reservations and transportation.

Mrs. Floyd Hart, program chairman, presented Mrs. Margaret Watson and Mrs. Wendell Brackett who gave a program of amateur operators in Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kansas, Iowa and Colorado and they also heard the "beep-beep" at approximately the same time and for the same duration of time. The operators formed a satellite net and found that the sound lasted only about two or three minutes and that there were approximately 144 beeps each minute.

The Homecoming queen will be end with the end of the dancing party at 1 a.m.

WSCS Meeting Held Tuesday In Manchester

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met Tuesday, Oct. 8, at 1:30 p.m. in the church parlor. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. James Gordon.

The first activity of Homecoming Week will be the Junior Class play Tuesday at 8 p.m. when "Our Young and Gay" starring Karen Jones and Truman Ross will be presented.

Thursday evening at 7 p.m. there will be a gals pep meeting at the football field complete with snake dance, bonfire, speakers, and a pep band program.

The annual homecoming parade is to be held on Saturday morning by the American Legion color guard and the Carrollton Community Unit High School band will be on the field.

The lesson closed with the prayer and song, "Jesus, Stand Among Us." The worship center with the various colored candles to represent different races was at this time explained.

Minutes of the September meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given. The secretary of missionary education announced two 1,000 point readers as receiving recognition at the fall group meeting. They are Mrs. Etta Clark and Mrs. Orville Wise.

The charter on racial policies was read, discussed and accepted. Plans for the week of Prayer and Self Denial were made and will be observed in the church on Oct. 29 from 2 to 3 p.m.

The meeting closed with the Spiritual Life thought. A guest, Mrs. Robert Lawson, attended the meeting. Refreshments in keeping with Halloween were served by Mrs. Charles Arnold.

Mrs. Earl Flower and Mrs. Charles Wright shopped in St. Louis Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Cooper and sons, Mark and Randy, and Mrs. Lucille Cooper visited over the weekend with Rev. and Mrs. Dean Cooper and family of Burnettsville, Ind.

Mrs. Grauel has made a number of arrangements of fall flowers from her garden and spoke of the materials and designs used.

Mrs. Muntman had two lovely arrangements of dried materials found in the fields and yards and also rocks and driftwood.

At the conclusion of the program a flower exchange was enjoyed by the guests in charge of Mrs. Edward Raft and Mrs. Clyde Arnold.

The hostesses, Mrs. Muntman, Mrs. Clyde L. Taylor, Mrs. Paul Smith, Mrs. Cornelia Leonhard, Mrs. Nettie Dugan and Mrs. H. H. Kilver served delicious refreshments of assorted doughnuts, candy corn, coffee and tea from a table centered with a bountiful "horn of plenty

Pastor Speaks To DAR Of Scrolls Found At Dead Sea

The Rev. James Caldwell Chapter, D.A.R., held a regular meeting at the Chapter home on Thursday, October 10.

The meeting started at 1:30 p.m. with a dessert served in the dining room. The table was decorated with lovely fall flowers. Mrs. Frank P. Nims served generous pumpkin tarts and Mrs. George Whiteside poured. The hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Frank Plouer, chairman, assisted by Mrs. George Whiteside, Mrs. Max T. Smith, Mrs. Frank Nims, Mrs. T. S. Chapman and Mrs. Howard Parker.

Mrs. George Drennan, Regent, opened the session at 2:30 p.m. Invocation was given by Mrs. Arthur Ewert. The pledge to the flag was led by Mrs. Herbert Cappa, followed by all singing The Star Spangled Banner.

Mrs. Drennan asked the members to think over the idea of having "Open House" for the Girl Scouts one day in the near future.

Report Division Meeting

On Thursday, October 3, the Division Meeting of the D.A.R. was held at the Christian Church in Pittsfield. The State Regent, Mrs. Len Y. Smith of Winnetka, conducted the morning session. Mrs. Smith spoke to the Rev. James Caldwell Chapter last January, while she was state Chairman of approved schools. Luncheon was served in the church dining room.

taken to the place of sale on Saturday. The store will open at 7:30 a.m.

Mrs. E. A. Nelson gave a report on the upkeep of the Chapter House.

Mrs. Drennan asked the members to think over the idea of having "Open House" for the Girl Scouts one day in the near future.

Religious Heritage

Mrs. Albert E. Powers, program chairman, introduced Rev. Janvrin of "Our Religious Heritage" program, with the topic, "Revelations of the Dead Sea Scrolls." Rev.

Janvrin expressed his pleasure of being at a D.A.R. meeting.

He confessed to his audience that in studying for this talk about the Scrolls, it had opened up a new field of research, as he had to do so much reading.

The world was in great need of new light and these Scrolls were found in this time of need, he stated.

The Scrolls were found in 1947 in great earthen jars, in caves along the Dead Sea. The Scrolls are of leather, and some of copper. Parts of every book of the Old Testament have been found, except the book of Esther. Some of the Psalms have been found. The talk was greatly appreciated by the audience.

Mrs. William H. Jones, National Defense chairman, read an article "Federal Spending—The Road to Ruin." The title tells the peril that exists. Mrs. H. J. Lemire, secretary, read the report of the September meeting.

The benefit chairman, Mrs. Charles T. Bowens spoke briefly announcing a bake sale to be held on Saturday, November 23, at Carl Cleaners on East State Street.

Contributions from members can be left at Mrs. Bowens home, 334 S. East St. on Friday evening or before.

Eighteen Attend B.Y.F. Hayride Held In Glasgow

GREENFIELD — Eighteen members and friends of the Baptist B.Y.F. enjoyed a hayride on Saturday evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hester accompanied the group as chaperons in the absence of their sponsor, Rev. F. R. Rogers. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rider of Peoria, guests of the Hesters.

At the close of the evening's ride the group enjoyed a wiener roast at the Montezuma landing.

C.I.P.S. Improvement

Employees of the Muncie Construction Co. from Decatur and the local Winchester C.I.P.S. men have been working in Glasgow since Thursday of last week doing voltage correction on the electric lines. New poles are being set and transformers installed on the much needed lines as more and more power is being used since the lines were installed several years ago.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Killebrew, Jr., of Springfield are now residents at the late Curtis Blackburn farm home, east of Glasgow.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hester and family have recently moved to the residence vacated by Mr. and Mrs. John Hester, who have moved to a tenant farm house northeast of Alsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bensken and son, Rodney, of Springfield are attending the funeral services for Mrs. Maude Sanderson in Carrollton Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Sanderson was the grandmother of Mrs. Bensken, formerly Miss Suzanne Sanderson of Glasgow.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crumlin of Mount Carmel and Miss Lottie Crumlin of West Union were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crumlin and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vaughn.

The second meeting of the Chandlerville Junior Woman's club was held Friday night, October 4, at the American Legion Hall.

The meeting was opened with members and guest repeating the club pledge led by Mrs. LaVern Love. The minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary, Mrs. R. E. Taylor, and the treasurer's report by the treasurer, Mrs. William Cloninger.

There was more discussion on a community project and a majority vote decided on the care of one or more needy families in this community. Inquiry is also to be made into the possibility of a Girl Scout Troop in Chandlerville.

The annual Fall Banquet is to be held October 29th at Jerseyville with the following making reservations: Mrs. LaVern Love, Mrs. R. E. Taylor, Mrs. Wm. Cloninger, Mrs. Richard Kirchner, Mrs. Harold Wainright, Mrs. Elmer Lynn, Mrs. H. B. Voss, Mrs. Roelen Armstrong, Mrs. O. R. Adkins Jr., Mrs. R. F. Harbinson, Mrs. Roland Vaughn, Mrs. Wayne Atterberry, Mrs. D. J. Brooks and Miss Lintner.

The regional meeting will be October 25th at Jerseyville, and the County Meeting, October 16th, at 2 p.m. (CST) at the Ashland Library with the Ashland Junior Women hostesses.

Mrs. Harold Wainright reported she had subscribed to the Saturday Evening Post for Dr. Marling's waiting room.

Subscription to the Illinois Club Woman was 100 per cent for the club.

Mrs. Lucille Kazmark, Joliet, Ill., spoke on "The Inner You" as expressed in the outer you.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. LaVern Love, Mrs. Wayne Atterberry and Mrs. O. R. Adkins Jr.

Going on a picnic? Take along raw carrot, cucumber and celery strips in a plastic bag with some ice cubes. Pack into an insulated bag.

That leftover sliced meat for Sunday-night supper will look attractive if you serve it on a platter surrounded with cauliflower, peas, carrots, and green beans. The meat may be heated in a little natural gravy; the vegetables should be cooked separately (or some of them can be canned). Or meat and cooked vegetables may be cold; in that case serve tartar sauce with them.

GTS Meets With Mrs. Joy

The G.T.S. Club met Wednesday, Oct. 9, with Mrs. Fannie Joy. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Ethel Carter. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Roll call was answered by each member displaying a piece of her handiwork. Mrs. Norma Davidmeyer introduced Mrs. Martha Cash, who demonstrated making dressings for the Morgan County Cancer Society. The club then cut out and folded 208 gauze dressings and 10 absorbent salvage dressings, and two members, Mrs. Stout and Mrs. Killam, took material home to make up.

Mrs. Nettie Detmer and Mrs. Pearl Killam were to have been in charge of sewing but none was available.

There were 17 members present and two guests, Mrs. Cash and Mrs. Edward Vorbeck of Barrington, Ill.

Mrs. Joy served delicious refreshments.

The next meeting will be an all-day trip to an unknown destination. Members are to bring sack lunches and meet at Mrs. Joy's home at 10 a.m. Oct. 23.

LOCAL GUESTS AT RUSHVILLE A.W.D.

AUXILIARY CEREMONY

Mrs. Thomas Ruby, state president of the American War Dad-Auxiliary, installed officers for the Rushville chapter on Thursday evening, Oct. 10, in a meeting held at Rushville in the home of Mrs. Stella Donaldson.

Before the installation a pot-luck supper was enjoyed. Members from Macomb, Vermont, Industry and Jacksonville were guests.

Mrs. Roy Newberry was installing sergeant-at-arms and Mrs. John Bland installing chaplain.

Reports of the national convention were made. Four gentlemen, guests of the Rushville chapter, furnished delightful music. Attending from the Jacksonville chapter were Mr. and Mrs. William F. Fanning, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Newberry, Mrs. Thomas Ruby and Mrs. John Bland.

CAROL ANDERSON

Carol Anderson was elected president of Section 7 of the Illinois Future Homemakers of America at the fall rally at Franklin High School October 5.

Miss Anderson is a junior at Chapin High School, where she is public relations chairman of her local chapter and active in chapter activities.

Jane Schumacher served on the nominating committee and Sandra Aufdenkamp was voting delegate. Gloria Fisher, section project chairman, announced the section awards.

The theme of the meeting was "Put Your Chapter at the End of the Rainbow." Techniques useful for developing leadership and member-centered chapters were discussed and demonstrated by Herbert Thompson, a representative of the Illinois Chain Store Council.

Miss Kay Hunley, Illinois F.H.A. president from Auburn, reported to the group on her trip to the national convention held at Purdue University last July. "Safety in the Home," one of the F.H.A. state projects, was the subject of a talk by Miss Hazel Graves, Morgan-Scott home advisor.

A very interesting style show, featuring Fall fashions for teenagers, was presented.

Those attending from Chapin included Phyllis Wilder, Betty Schone, Maxine Lael, Prudie Ginder, Carolyn Hacker, Janet Hutson, Marilyn Gilliland, Janet Schumacher, Marilee Joekel, Judy Carrigan, Sandra Aufdenkamp, Carolyn Criss, Arlene Rahe, Judy Berghausen, Carolyn Lael, Carol Anderson, Jackie Ginder, Shiley Ginder, Gloria Fisher, Emily Pulling, Peggy Claywood, and Chapter advisor, Mrs. Audra Taylor.

Arenzville Woman's Club Opens Season

ARENZVILLE — The initial meeting of the fall season of the Woman's Club was held at the Legion and Community Hall.

This was family night and a potluck supper was enjoyed by 71 people. The invocation was given by Mrs. Olive Williams.

Following the meal, the president, Mrs. Harold Kruse, presided at the business meeting, and welcomed the guests, members and their families. The pledge of allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. Arthur Kleinschmidt. Mrs. Jack Burrus led group singing of "Star Spangled Banner" with Mrs. Harold Wessler as accompanist.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. William Jones and the treasurer, Mrs. Frances Hobrock, gave her report.

An announcement was made of the fall meeting of the Cass County Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Ashland on Oct. 16, with the Ashland Junior Woman's Club as hostess club. Anyone wishing to go may contact Mrs. J. E. Peck for transportation.

Mrs. George Morrison, finance and budget chairman, read the proposed budget for the year and it was voted to accept the budget as read. Mrs. Morrison also told of the club project for this year, the sale of embossed dinner napkins and covers for clothes hangers.

Mrs. Virgil Bartelheim reported $85. $45 was realized from the lunch served at the flower show, and the country store. Mrs. Arthur Kleinschmidt reported on Roegge and Fred Tholen.

Seal Of MacMurray College For Men To Be Unveiled Oct. 25

The official seal of MacMurray College for Men will be formally unveiled Friday evening, Oct. 25, after Governor William G. Stratton of Illinois has spoken at the dedication day banquet, President Louis W. Norris announced yesterday.

It will be part of activities dedicating MacMurray College for Men, which began its first year last month. The day's events will begin with the dedicatory convocation Friday afternoon at 2 p.m., in Merner chapel, when Dr. Victor L. Butterfield, president of Connecticut Wesleyan University, and Dr. Theodore Distler, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges, will speak.

Bishop Charles W. Brashares of the Illinois Conference of the Methodist church, will speak at the dedication at 3:30 at Blackstock House.

The men's seal is currently being designed by Professor Howard Sidman, chairman of the Art department at MacMurray. It will embody the ancient Christian and medieval Scottish symbols, Sidman states, along with modern symbols. The new men's motto of "Wisdom, Duty, and Reverence," will be included on the seal.

Ashland Club Hears Expert On Planning

ASHLAND — No community can afford to postpone realistic planning, Victor A. Hyde of the University of Illinois Bureau of Community Planning told the Ashland Community Club Thursday night.

His appearance at the meeting was made in connection with Ashland's recently announced plans for the creation of a Village Plan Commission.

He explained that the purpose of the University of Illinois bureau is to stimulate and promote public interest in community planning to carry on planning research, to make background surveys pertinent to the intelligent planning of Illinois communities and to summarize and bring to the attention of the people of Illinois the results of this research.

"Planning today is more in the nature of replanning," he said.

"We plan as far as possible to correct past mistakes and the bad results of a 'tossy' like growth, and carefully consider possibilities of, and needs for, future growth."

The speaker indicated that nearly every city, county, park district, and other governmental unit has made expenditures for capital improvements. Frequently, however, funds have been spent without the control and guidance of an over all master plan to coordinate the effort and integrate the results. It was pointed out that a comprehensive master plan usually deals with items such as history of growth of the community, population trends, streets and highways, land use and zoning, schools and recreation housing and neighborhood rehabilitation, public buildings and the city's appearance, administration of the plan, and the development of a capital expenditure program.

It was stressed that a zoning ordinance does not and cannot legally attempt to control value of the structure erected, details of construction, any phase of racial segregation, and clearly, its provisions cannot be retroactive.

Pointing out that planning does not mean a spending spree, heavy debt, or burdensome taxes, Hyde made this summary:

"Certain things are needed in this community. When funds are available and expenditures are contemplated, plan carefully and comprehensively for the expenditure."

"Plannings should be the basis for spending."

Recommending use of a plan commission, he said such a commission provides a fact-finding and research agency that is free and detached from pressure for speed or compromise.

Girl Scout Activities

It is difficult for Girl Scouts to understand why anyone would want to break into their cabin at Camp Sharbark on Lake Jacksonville. This happened about two weeks ago, when person or persons took off a shutter, broke a window, entered the cabin and built a fire in the inside fireplace, and then perhaps by way of payment left a can of beans in the icebox. But we are all wondering what it was necessary to break all the light bulbs, since that act seems to make the whole thing a deliberate bit of vandalism.

The Board of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council will meet at the Girl Scout Office on Tuesday, October 15, at 1:30 p.m. It is hoped that all members can be present, so that all aspects of our organization can be discussed.

Organize Senior Troop

A fine new Senior Scout Troop was organized at Camp Sharbark, October 5. After a picnic lunch the girls met around the campfire to discuss plans for the year, at which time it was decided to meet on the second and fourth Tuesdays from 7:00—8:30 p.m. at 1040 W. College Avenue. Seventeen girls came to the first official meeting on October 8, and items of business included the following: the decision to take as its troop number, No. 1 which was the number used by the first Girl Scout Troop organized in Jacksonville and which was made up of girls of the School for the Deaf; the election of officers under the club form of organization; the selection of the type of troop to be Trail Blazer; and the selection of type of volunteer community service each girl would participate in, such as Hospital Aide, Library Aide or Program Aide. We can be very proud of these Senior Scouts who consider their scout work one of the most vital interests in their high school careers and who will reflect the character qualities expressed in the Girl Scout Promise and Girl Scout Laws throughout their community activities.

The Program Chairman of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council, Mrs. Robert Hewitt (CH 3-2151), will begin visiting all troops soon.

She plans to contact leaders before troop meeting time, and she will give them any help they desire on program planning and badge-work planning. If in the meantime, a leader needs program help she may call Mrs. Hewitt at the above number.

Juliette Low Anniversary

October 31 is the birthday of Juliette Low, the woman who founded Girl Scouting in the United States in 1912. We should observe this important date within our troop or get together with another troop to put on a skit about Juliette Low's life, how she formed the first troop, what sort of a person she was. "Daisy Low of the Girl Scouts" is a booklet available at the Girl Scout Office and is one that is fun for the girls.

Barbara Smith, Wayne Littig, Wed In South

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Smith, 1628 Hardin avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Delores, to John Wayne Littig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Littig, Bluff route one.

The ceremony was performed Sept. 27 at Columbus, Miss., with Rev. G. W. Edwards officiating.

Miss Shirley Cozart of Jacksonville and Harold E. Berghaus of Chapin rural route attended the couple.

The bride wore a dress sheath in beige lace on satin with matching color satin trim. The gown had a scoop cut neckline and long sleeves with a large self bow at the back. Her accessories were a deep rose shade.

Miss Cozart wore taffeta and velvet in an ash gray color, also sheath cut, with pastel blue accessories.

The newlyweds are making their home at 853 West College avenue.

The bride graduated from Jacksonville high school in 1955 and Mr. Littig from Bluff high school in 1954. He is engaged in farming with his father. The bride is employed at the Pum-kin Library.

Board Issues 32 Certificates In Morgan County

A total of 32 teachers and supervisory teaching certificates were issued in Morgan county during the three-month period ending Oct. 2, 1957, by the Illinois Teacher Certificate board, it was reported Saturday by Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of public instruction an ex-officio chairman of the teacher certificate board. The statewide total for the three months was 4,491.

Of this number, 241 were junior college and supervisory certificates. The 241 figure included 134 all-grade supervisory, 86 elementary supervisory and 21 junior college. Regular teaching certificates, which total 3,005, included 1,573 for high school, 349 special education, 1,062 elementary and one professional vocational.

Provisional plan certificates, by credit or test, numbered 1,244. Of this group, 298 were on the high school level, 71 special and 875 elementary.

Edwards was the only downstate county in which no teacher certifications were made for the three-month period.

Chicago Hospital Reports Outbreak Similar To Flu

Teamsters Locals Asked For Data On Their Funds

CHICAGO (P) — An outbreak of respiratory illness marked by fevers at the Chicago state hospital was reported Saturday by the Illinois State Public Health Service.

Dr. Frederick Plotke, health service chief, said that 150 patients have been afflicted, and some of the cases have the earmarks of an influenza-like disease.

Dr. Plotke said the illness was not virulent, and that "all patients are making a normal, uneventful recovery."

Tickets for the banquet and program may be purchased from any of the members of the county livestock marketing committee, the members of the board of the Greene County Farm Bureau or in the Farm Bureau office.

Two signers of the Declaration of Independence became U. S. presidents: John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

Children, as well as adults, lose their immunity to diphtheria unless they take booster shots.

Plotke said in a statement that his action was prompted by "clear examples" already uncovered of what he called misuse of funds by Hoffa, the newly elected president of the Teamsters Union.

DEDICATE PITTSFIELD CHURCH TODAY

New Church Of Nazarene Is Free Of Debt

PITTSFIELD—The new Nazarene church in Pittsfield will be dedicated on Sunday, Oct. 13, with an appropriate program, and free of debt.

Dr. W. S. Purinton of Springfield, district superintendent of Nazarene churches will be the speaker at the Sunday morning services at 10:30. Dedicatory services will be held in the afternoon with Dr. Samuel Young, general superintendent of Kansas City, delivering the address at 2:30 o'clock. There will be special music at both services.

The exterior of the church is of buff brick 83 x 35 feet in dimension. The sanctuary has a seating capacity of three hundred and is beautifully decorated throughout in a manner suggestive of worship. A number of members of the congregation donated their services in the decorating of the church, and in furnishing materials for the work.

Has Grown Rapidly

The growth of the church has been phenomenal. In 1939 a small hall over a paint store on South Monroe street which was rented by the Rev. Union Wood for the purpose of holding preaching services and Sunday School for the denomination was the beginning. Six years later the Church of The Nazarene was organized by the Rev. J. H. Crawford. The following month Rev. Paul Snellenberger, a graduate student of Mt. Olivet College, was called to its pastorate. From this point on the small church grew and a small temporary church was built in 1945-47 on the lot which had been purchased and is the present site of the new building. Following Rev. Snellenberger, the Rev. Richard Bushey was pastor for two years, and was followed by the Rev. Craig Weathers, who started the building fund which grew rapidly until the present pastor, the Rev. Garnett Mitchell, came to Pittsfield in 1955, and the need for a new building was felt. Early in 1957 the new structure to be dedicated Sunday was begun.

Membership Of 71

The church now has an eighteen piece orchestra which is presented at the services and special occasions. The membership is seventy-one with an average attendance of one hundred and noon.

Municipal Airport Activities

The Illinois Flying Farmers held a fly-in to two state parks on Sunday. The Flying Farmers gathered at Red Hills state park near Olney, Ill., and then departed for Giant City state park near Carbondale. A basket dinner was held at Giant City state park.

State park officials are providing many landing strips near state parks for the flying public.

Those attending from the Jacksonville area were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Denham, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Engle, and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Smith and family. Both Mr. Denham and Mr. Smith piloted their Stinson airplanes for this occasion. The increasing amount of landing strips available at state parks should encourage the flying public to use these facilities.

The Illinois wing of the now internationally prominent OX5 club will be organized at Capital airport, Springfield, on November 16, 1957. Plans are being made to make the Illinois wing one of the largest in the nation. Anyone with OX5 experience in the Jacksonville area is invited to attend this exclusive club.

Membership is limited exclusively to men and women who have, previous to 1940: (1) soloed or flown aircraft powered by OX5 engine; (2) owned OX5 powered aircraft; (3) actively and directly participated in the design, construction, repair, maintenance, sale and promotion or operation of OX5 powered aircraft. Application blanks are available at Byerly Airlines at Jacksonville Municipal airport.

Chit Ngwe, an exchange student from Burma, accompanied by Leroy Sweet of Franklin, made an aerial flight over Jacksonville and surrounding areas in Byron Smith's Stinson last week. The purpose of the flight was to see the effects of soil conservation practices. Mr. Ngwe obtained his degree in agriculture at Rangoon Agricultural University and has been staying with the Sweet family for the past three weeks. An aerial flight provides a farmer with a much better picture of the results of soil conservation than he can obtain from the ground.

Student pilots Rollin Martin and Tommy Schutze made cross country flights on Sunday. Rollin made a solo cross country flight to Bloomington, Decatur, Springfield and return. Tommy made a dual cross country flight to Havana and Springfield.

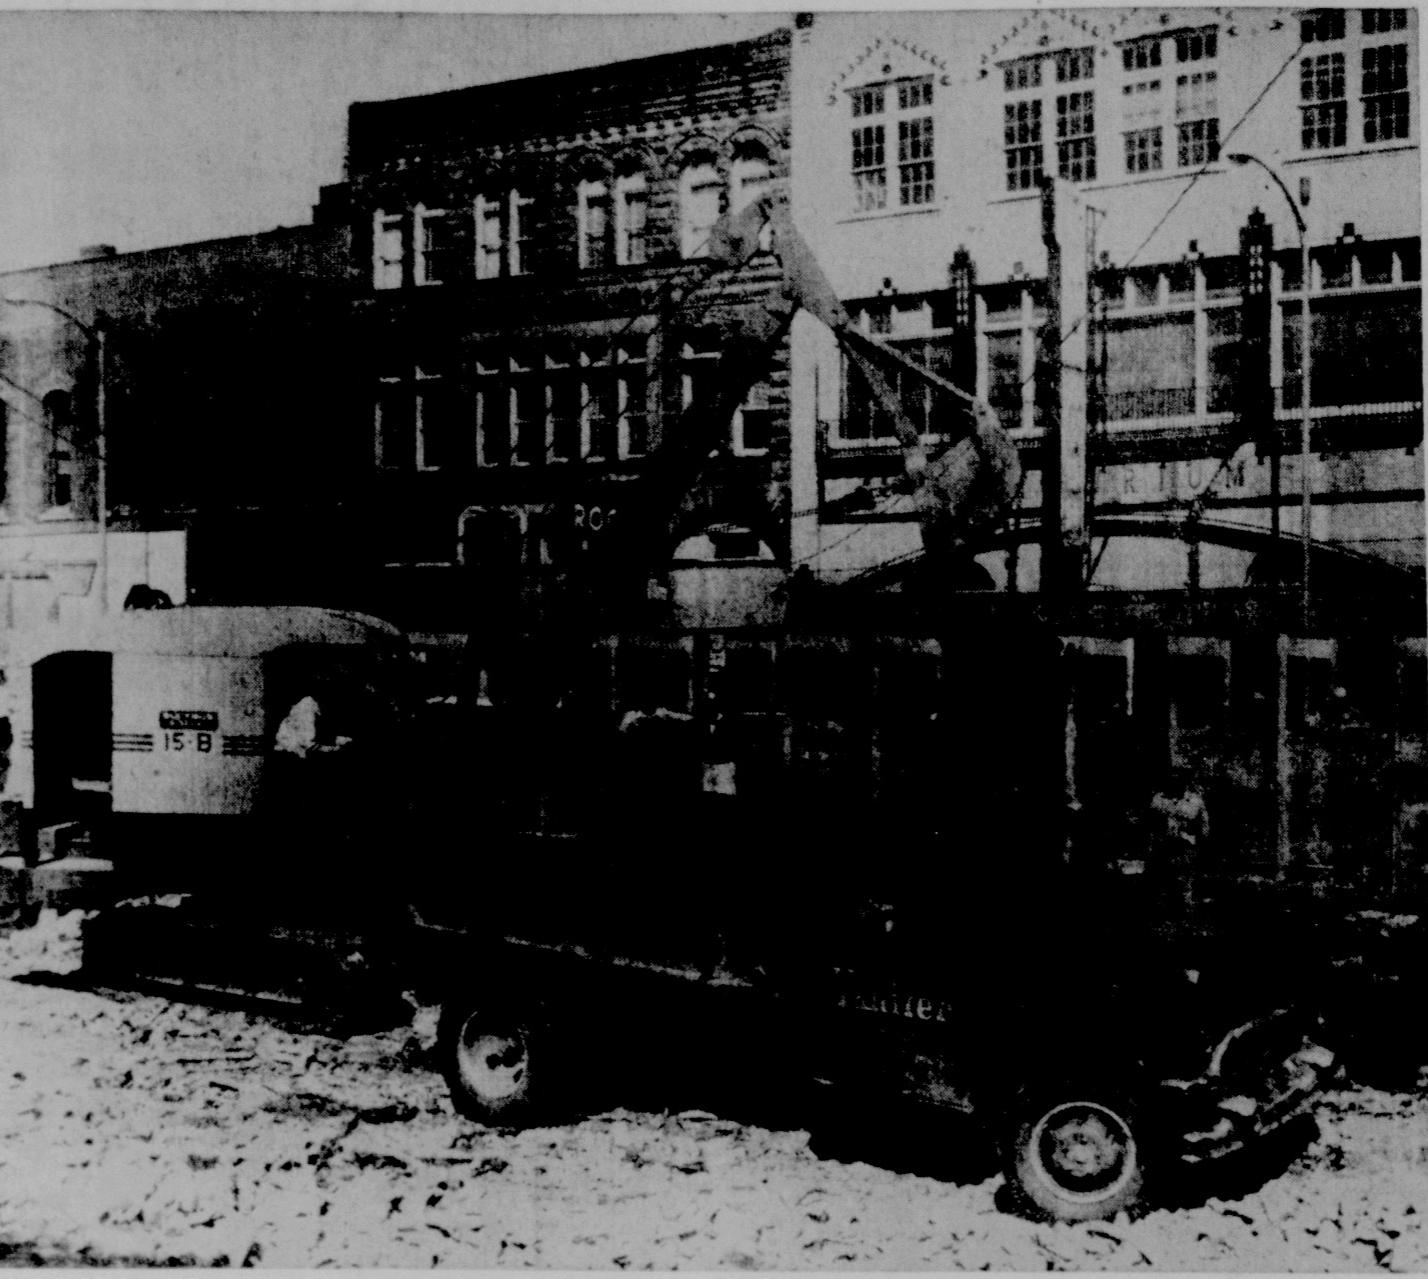

The November meeting of the club will be held in the Point Social Room at 6:30 on the evening of November 14. This will be a night and a potluck dinner will be served.

RELIGION NOT "COSMETIC"

DENVER (AP)—Dr. Chester M. Alter, chancellor of the University of Denver, says that the problem of separation of church and state in higher education is not going to be solved by "treating religion as a cosmetic on the face of a college campus." He said such superficial attention is often the approach of many institutions.

THE OLD MAKES WAY FOR THE NEW

Pictured above are workmen of the Hugh Gibson Construction Co. making way in Jacksonville for a new addition to the Elliott State Bank. Portions of the sidewalk and curbing are being removed and the last portion of the former building which has been razed.

Construction of the project, which includes drive-in facilities is expected to take about 6 months to complete.

The site of the new addition extends from the rear of the present bank site along East State St. to an alley. A portion of the alley has been closed to make room for the excavation of footings, which will consume the entire space.

The project will provide winter employment for several local construction workers.

Those who have read the first one, "Metal Sculpture" by John Lynch. Illustrations of complete works are accompanied with information as to materials, tools, and processes.

"Progress against Prejudice," is a report of success in churches which have confronted the racial problem. The author, Robert Root has reported on actual cases from many different areas.

For young and old who find relaxation in square dancing there is a new "Square Dancers' Guide" by Gene Gowling. Illustrations are both amusing and informative.

Democrat Women
Of Morgan Hear
Talk By Wallace

Robert Wallace, staff director of the U.S. banking committee, who directed the Senate investigation of Orville Hodge, spoke on "The Need for Higher Morality Among State and Local Officials" at the meeting of the Morgan County Democratic Woman's Club in the County Fair room at the Dunlap Hotel.

Mr. Florence Gehegoff, president of the club, called the meeting to order, after which Mrs. Dorothy Winn led the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Several matters of business were discussed, followed by a round table discussion.

From interviews with the persons concerned, Robert Trumbull has compiled "Nine Who Survived Hiroshima and Nagasaki." This grim reminder of the bombing is inherently a plea for an immediate and sensible approach to international control.

Not all of the new books are concerned with problems. For example, there is a most enticing background for reading today's newspapers with greater understanding.

"Where to go for Help" by Wayne Oates is planned to answer the question. One part deals with "The Great Helping Professions" and the second contains specific suggestion on "Help for Special Problems."

Karl Beuter and Nathan Hale have produced a short reader book with a single simile "to a family deal more easily with the problems of emotional illness." The title is "Emotional Illness: How Families Can Help."

Mrs. Eunice Gottschall then introduced Robert Wallace, who gave a very interesting talk.

When the meeting adjourned, the remainder of the evening was spent in informal discussion and light refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be Nov. 12, at the home of Mrs. Bowe and daughter, Lucille, at 1139 S. Clay avenue.

REPORTS, DECISIONS
PROVIDE GRAIN
TRADE INCENTIVES

CHICAGO (UPI)—A variety of government reports and decisions provided the principal incentives for the grain trade this week.

Day to day price trends reflected a decision by the Commodity Credit Corp. to ease up on sales of government owned corn, a report on wheat imoundings, CCC rental of bins for storing soybeans and the USDA's monthly crop report.

At the end of the trading week, wheat futures on the Board of Trade were 1 1/4 lower to 5 higher, corn 5/8 lower to 5 higher, oats 1 cent lower to 5 higher, rye off 5/8 to 2 cents, soybeans up 1/8 to 2 1/2 cents, and large 2 to 48 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The most active session of the week occurred Friday when the entire futures list, except December and July oats, declined rather sharply on a bearish government report which forecast larger than expected crops of soybeans, corn and wheat.

Soybeans were strong most of the week, moving upward despite such bearish factors as larger receipts at terminal markets, favorable harvesting weather and expectations of bumper crop.

The principal reason for bullishness in beans was a dearth of offerings by producers despite the spreading harvest.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market this week suffered a break equal to the one in the week ended Oct. 1, 1955, the first week following President Eisenhower's heart attack.

To find a worse weekly setback you have to go back nearly 24 years, to the third week of July 1933, in the hectic depression days of the early New Deal.

An estimated 10 billion dollars was clipped this week from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the average.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week dropped $8.20 to $159.40, putting the average at its lowest point since March 31, 1955.

Since the first of this year the stock market's estimated cash drop has been roughly 22 billion dollars, putting the quoted value of all listed stocks down to the neighborhood of 198 billion dollars. The fall-off since Dec. 31, 1956, has been about 10 per cent.

The battering the market took this week accounted for more than a third of the decline so far this year. The turnover of shares soared to 15,575,710, or a daily average of 3,115,710. This was the biggest weekly volume since the first post-heart attack week. It placed great emphasis on the decline.

The week's fall eliminated a steady drop since July 12 when the market hit its high for 1957, coming mighty close to the all-time bull market high of 1966. Wall Street rooted for a topping of that peak, but it didn't happen.

Members of the Eight & Forty Morgan Co. Salon No. 320 were pleasantly entertained at a wiener roast in the part of Beardstown those present were: Lillian Schall, Bernadine Bush, Helen Wiener, Estelle Scribner, Edna Daly, Zella Reid, Mary Margaret Blackburn, Gwendolyn Boyd, Beulah Rae Lael, Mildred Dugan & Irene Caldwell. Guests were Eldon Spaulding, Robert Reid, Susan Hatala, Pewee Blackburn and Mrs. Wm. Blackburn.

After the wiener roast the members retired to the American Legion Clubrooms and held a business meeting. Plans were made to hold a chili supper at the American Legion Home at Jacksonville. The date will be announced later.

Irene Caldwell gave a report on her trip to Chicago where she attended the Eight & Forty Fall powwow.

The Morgan Co. Salon No. 320 will again stuff the T.B. Sals at Oak Lawn Sanatorium on Nov. 7th.

After the business session games were played prizes going to 1st Bertie Spaulding; 2nd Estelle Scribner; 3rd Zella Reid, Edna Daly, Gwendolyn Boyd, Beulah Rae Lael and Mildred Dugan.

Quarterbacks Cox and Dick Larson directed a pass-run attack which put the game on ice for the Gophers before half time.

Three Minnesota touchdowns came on the ground and three were the result of passes.

Cox scored on a one-yard sneak for the opening Gophers touchdown in the first period and got off his scoring pass to Martin after apparently being trapped far comb.

Minnesota Crushes Hapless Northwestern In Big 10 Tilt, 41-6

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Minnesota's grinding Gophers unrelaxed a new star, sophomore halfback Bill Martin of Chicago, as they demoralized Northwestern with a 20-point second quarter and crushed the Wildcats 41 to 6 in a Big Ten football game Saturday.

Martin, a 182 - pound speedster who missed Minnesota's first two victories because of injury, scored two of the six Gopher touchdowns.

Martin got up his head of steam at the start of the second half, and scored his two touchdowns within two minutes in the third period.

Northwestern's one TD came on an eight-yard pass from quarterback Chip Holcomb, son of the school's athletic director. Stu Holcomb hit George Gondek in the end zone in the fourth quarter with 47 seconds remaining. The Wildcat's conversion try was blocked.

Minnesota 7 20 14 0—41
Northwestern 0 0 0 6—6

Minnesota scoring — touchdowns: Cox (1, plunge); Chorske (3, run); Schmidt (6, pass from Larson); Bombarde (11, pass from Anderson); Martin 2 (32, pass from Cox); 11, run). Conversions: Borstad 3, Rasmussen, Blakely.

Northwestern scoring — touchdownd: Gondek (8, pass from Holcomb).

WALTER CRITICIZES U.S. AID TO POLAND AND YUGOSLAVIA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Walter (D-P) of the House Committee on Un-American Activities said Saturday Poland and Yugoslavia are "instruments of Soviet aggression" and he criticized U.S. aid to them.

Walter's opinions were contained in a foreword to biographies of President Gomulka of Poland and Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, published by the committee.

Gomulka has consistently affirmed his solidarity with the Soviet Union," Walter said. "Tito has been serving, and serves today, as a traveling salesman for Moscow whose mission is to lure neutral nations into the Soviet orbit."

Walter said the information contained in the biographies "is of particular significance in the light of the current action of the White House and the State Department in designating both Poland and Yugoslavia as potential allies of the United States and, on this basis, granting them extensive aid."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY DON AND GOOD LUCK THIS SEASON

Harry Grayson's

SCOREBOARD

(Harry Grayson is on another assignment)

By JIMMY BRESLIN

NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Ray Robinson will get into the ring and take on Carmen Basilio again in February—despite anything he speaks of at the present—for a couple of reasons.

One stems from the day he announced to a couple of his visitors in his Harlem office, "I'll be right back."

So Ernie Braca and Vic Marsillo took a seat. Braca smoked a cigar. He smoked another one. Marsillo talked. Then he talked some more.

"About three and a half hours later," Braca says, "Vic tells me he is getting the idea Robinson wouldn't be back. I agreed, so we left."

This was a couple of days after Robinson had lost to Gene Fullmer and Braca and Marsillo had come up to collect the manager's end of the purse. It wasn't paid, Braca says, nor were his shares due from the return and Basilio war.

"My lawyer," Braca says, "figures we have $200,000 coming, which is what we go to court for in the next couple of weeks."

He isn't alone. The government keeps hitting Robinson for tax money. Joe Glazer who served as Robinson's agent and, with Braca, privately holding fight manager, has called his attorney, too. Robinson told Glazer, "I won't pay you," and Joe, who holds a $120,000 mortgage on Ray's buildings, among other things, is mad.

"When I got him on the phone a few days after we were waiting for him," Braca says, "he told me he was broke. He keeps saying that to everybody. I can't believe it. The man never spent eight dollars in his life, especially recently, and he has been making a fortune."

"My own opinion is that he has money buried in a tin can somewhere. But no matter what he's got the bills are piling up so big now he has to fight Basilio in February. There's no other way."

There is another reason, too. As a man without a title, Robinson is in trouble. For a day to run placidly with him, he must be addressed as "Champ" at least two dozen times. His ego demands it.

Never a popular figure in Harlem, he always had "champion" going for him and it did a good job of making him a big man. Now he's just a fighter and everybody on the fight beat takes it for granted he is coming back—money or no money—to get the middleweight title back from Basilio.

"There are so many things coming up," Robinson keeps saying, "I just don't know what I'm going to do."

But sometime in the next six or seven weeks he will start the usual cat-and-dog negotiations with the International Boxing Club and in February he'll come out to take on Basilio again.

He'll do it for money, perhaps. But it is to be doubted if money every could pay for the physical torture that would go into 15 rounds of fighting with Basilio.

The Robinson ego—that's different. He can forget the ugly little right hands Carmen sans into his midsection the first time. He can forget clutching his middle and nearly collapsing while going back to the dressing room. He can forget that he had trouble dressing himself.

What matters is people don't call him champ. The money he saves—all that can be treated casually. He didn't pay once, there's no reason why he'd pay again. But he needs the fame. Needs it badly.

So much so that it is going to cause this 37-year-old man to go to war again against Basilio, the only man who gave him the kind of taking Sugar Ray Robinson said he'd never take.

Notre Dame Decisions Army, 23-21, On Long Field Goal In Fourth

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Notre Dame Monte Stickle's branding afternoon when he took a lateral pass from quarterback a "goat" moments before, kicked a 29-yard field goal with less than nine minutes to play Saturday and earned the Fighting Irish a 23-21 victory over Army in a pulsating renewal of one of football's most colorful rivalries.

Stickle's arrow-straight kick came 2 minutes 23 seconds after he had shot wide on a conversion attempt following Notre Dame's third touchdown and leaving Army in front, 21-20.

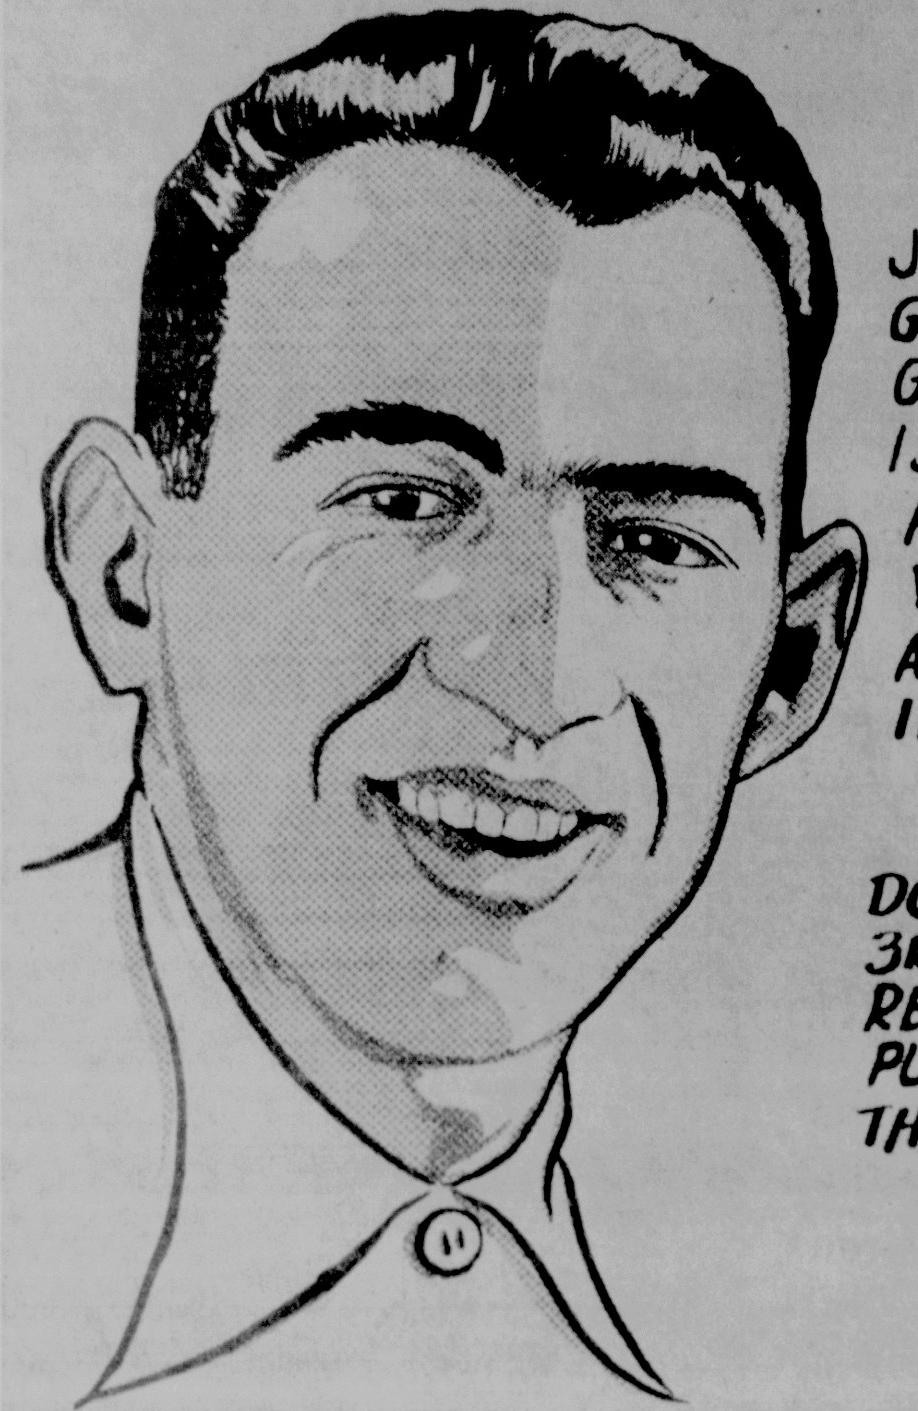

The bitter battle, featured by a brilliant individual running duel between Army's yearling halfback Bob Anderson and Notre Dame's driving fullback Nick Pietrosante, followed the nerve-stabbing tradition of Army-Notre Dame games.

It was the first time both teams had scored as many as three touchdowns against each other in a single game since the competition started back in 1913.

It was the 34th triumph for the Irish against seven victories for Army and four ties. And it was particularly sweet since the fudged men of South Bend, bouncing back from an eight-loss 1956 season, were underdogs in a game in which both entered undefeated.

A crowd of 55,000 jamming huge Municipal Stadium, was treated to a staccato succession of thrills which shaded even memories of the great Chris Cagle, Doc Blanchard and Glen Davis of Army and the fabled "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame.

Anderson, a long-legged, 19-year-old first-year man from Coconino, Ariz., lit the fuse for the exciting

Ohio State Turns Illini Fumbles And Gambles Into 21-7 Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's ground-eating Buckeyes converted Illinois' gambles and fumbles into long touchdown drives Saturday for a 21-7 victory in the opening Western Conference game for each. A crowd of 82,239 saw the game.

A scintillating passing performance by Tom Haller, six foot three Illinois quarterback, who completed 10 of 13 tosses for 183 yards, was not enough to overcome the Buckeyes' all-around superiority.

Illinois had the ball three times in the first half and lost it each time on a fumble, once after going 58 yards to the Ohio 19, again "insurance" touchdown.

The Illinois defenders made two great goal line stands in the scoreless second period, after Ohio had driven fumbled and moved goalward.

The Illini took the ball on the 5 down after Ohio had moved up from the 41 to the 1 on one occasion, and stopped a 56-yard drive on the 6-inch line after the second threat.

Don Clark, Ohio's scintillating left halfback, was the workhorse of the game. The speedster out-gained the entire Illinois team on the ground as he picked up 133 yards and one touchdown in 33 carries. Illinois gained 120 yards in 33 ground plays with Don Grothe, junior halfback, leading the way with 67 yards in 8 tries.

Ohio piled up 299 yards rushing, but had only 26 yards through the air to 208 for Illinois.

The crowd of 82,239 was the 16th straight over the 50,000 mark in the Buckeye stadium, and boosted the two-game total to 164,623. The victory left Ohio with a 2-1 record, and Illinois with a 1-2 mark.

It was the fourth straight defeat handed Illinois by the Buckeyes and gave Ohio State 27 victories, 16 losses and 3 ties in the long rivalry with the Illini, which has carried on through 44 straight years.

Ohio had 23 first downs to 16 for the visitors, the Bucks getting two through the air and Illinois on the ground, and needing only a bit more than a yard for first down on its own 44, tried a pass instead of a run through the porous defense. The pass was knocked down and Illinois elected to gamble for the short yardage on fourth down. Halfback Bob Mitchell failed to make it, and Ohio took over on Illinois' 46.

The Buckeyes came right back after the kickoff and went 65 yards in 16 plays with quarterback Frank Kremlas sneaking a yard for a 7-1 edge.

The big break came early in the fourth period. Illinois, after moving 30 yards in three plays on the ground, and needing only a bit more than a yard for first down on its own 44, tried a pass instead of a run through the porous defense. The pass was knocked down and Illinois elected to gamble for the short yardage on fourth down. Halfback Bob Mitchell failed to make it, and Ohio took over on Illinois' 46.

The Buckeyes scored — touchdown; Kremling (58, pass-run from Haller), Conversion, Haller.

Ohio State scoring—touchdowns: Clark (9, run), Kremling (1, Smith), Sutherlin (6, pass from Kremling), Conversations.

The Bucks scored in nine plays, with Kremling hitting Don Sutherlin with a six-yard pass for the win.

Pittsburgh, 19, Princeton Trips Pennsylvania, 13-9

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Jim Motley's quick thinking and accurate passing saved Princeton from a licking Saturday and the Ivy League favorites pulled out a 13-9 victory over a tough but luckless Pennsylvania team.

Motley, a 165-pounder, set up the first Princeton touchdown with an impromptu pass, then fired a planned pass to sophomore Dan Sachs for the second, and winning score.

Penn chewed up the middle of the Princeton line early, scored a first touchdown and a third period field goal and deserved to win. But the Tigers rose to the occasion when the going became toughest and pulled out the decision in a game that proved a thriller for 26,000 spectators.

Princeton looked like a beaten team after having been passed on the Penn one just as the first half ended. But sophomore quarterback Gene Locks grabbed off a pass by Penn's Hal Musick and got the Tigers started again.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt's big bruising line stopped undermanned Nebraska cold at every turn Saturday and despite their own often-times sputtering attack, the Panthers rolled to an easy 34-0 football victory.

Its forces depleted by injury and fatigue, Nebraska could make no headway against the rugged Panthers. Pitt dominated the game from start to finish and the Cornhuskers spent most of the afternoon on their own backyard.

Sophomore quarterback Ivan Tonice, filling in for injured Bill Kaliden, ably directed Pitt to its third straight victory after an opening season loss to Oklahoma.

Tonice and senior Jim Lenhart, who spelled off the 19-year-old sophomore at quarterback, sent a host of hard-charging backs through and around outclassed Nebraska.

Joe Scisla, a 180-pound junior halfback, scored two touchdowns for the Panthers, one a two-yard plunge to open the scoring and the other a 29-yard run to finish it up.

Illinois College, Routt, Tigers Capture Grid Victories

Blueboys Respond To Homecoming Cheers, Edge Principia, 12-6

Saturday afternoon, playing before one of the largest Homecoming crowds in years, the Illinois College Blueboys won one of the tough ones, 12-6, from Principia College of Elsah, Illinois. The victory not only sweetened Homecoming for the old grads, but also racked up the first conference win for the Blue and White. The season's record for the Blueboys now stands at two wins and two losses.

Toward the end of the second quarter with the game still scoreless, I.C. started a drive on its own 24 yard line. A fumble and a recovery moved the ball to the 25, where on the next play quarterback Willie Haas cut loose with a long pass to end Larry Scott who had got behind the Indian secondary. Larry gathered in the ball on the midfield stripe, took off for the far corner and scored standing up. The play covered 75 yards. The try for the point after touchdown was no good. The score was Illinois College 6, Principia 0, with three minutes and fifty seconds left in the half.

Again, in the third quarter, Principia had punted from its own four yard line out of danger to its 47 where the Blueboys began another scoring drive. On the fifth play from scrimmage with the ball on the Indians' 27 yard line, halfback Ron Kitteridge boomed off tackle, fought his way along the sideline, and went all the way for I.C.'s second touchdown. Again the extra point was missed, and the Blueboys were ahead, 12-0 with one minute and 80 seconds left in the third quarter.

However, Principia had its moments, for in the fourth quarter the Indians used 17 plays for 75 yards and the Blue and Gold's only touchdown. At one point, a goal line stand by the Blueboys stopped the Indians just four inches short of the goal line; a penalty moved the ball back to the five. Two plays later, fullback Ron Nolte went over for six points. The point after touchdown try was no good. Scoring was completed for the ball game at 12-6 with five minutes and eight seconds left in playing time.

Principia's scoring drive was the only time that the Indians moved inside the Blueboys' 30 yard line. On the other hand, Illinois College had five drives stopped inside the Principia thirty; three of the drives died inside the ten.

Much of the difference lay in alert ball hawking on the part of the Blue and White. The Blueboys

Hawkeyes Coast To Easy Victory Over Indiana, 47-6

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Iowa's defending Big Ten champions cut up Indiana Saturday, 47-7, with flashing runs of a dozen feet backs and pinpoint passing of quarterback Randy Duncan.

Duncan threw touchdown passes to end Jim Gibbons and Bob Prescott in the Hawks' first defense of their 1956 title. Little Bill Gravel, an Indiana native, ran over two touchdowns.

Iowa, already leading, the nation in total offense, piled up 455 yards to Indiana's 101.

It was just a question of how much after the huge Iowa line and alert secondary held Indiana to a net loss of 16 yards from scrimmage in the first half. Iowa ranked No. 8 nationally in the Associated Press poll, led 33-0 at the half.

Gravel ran 14 yards for Iowa's first touchdown on the ninth play after the Hawks took the opening kickoff on their own 30. He scooted 11 yards for another in the second quarter.

Duncan scoring passes gained

29 yards on the toss to Prescott in the first quarter, and 36 on a long heave to Gibbons in the second. Ray Jauch, third string Iowa halfback, ran nine yards for an other second quarter score, and Collins Hager counted from the Indiana 16 in the third period.

Indiana scored its first touchdown in three games on a 74-yard pass play in the final period. Quarterback Steve Filipowski connected with halfback Dave Whittle, who wrenched away from Glen Treadaway.

Prescott converted three extra points and Alex Karras two for Iowa. Jim Yore kicked Indiana's Iowa 13 20 7 7-47

Indiana 0 0 7-7

Iowa scoring — Touchdowns:

Gravel 2 (12, run; 11, run);

Prescott (29, pass-run from Duncan); Gibbons (36, pass-run from Duncan); Jauch (9, run); Hager (16, run); Hoppel (7, run). Conversions: Prescott 3; Karras 2

Indiana scoring — touchdowns:

Whittle (74, pass-run from Filipowski). Conversions: Yore.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (UPI) — Lake Forest clinched a 20-12 upset over Wheaton Saturday to take the lead in the College Conference of Illinois football title race.

The issue was settled less than 2½ minutes before the final gun when halfback John Gossel sprinted 55 yards for the final Lake Forest touchdown which nailed down the game.

In their first victory over Wheaton on Lake Forest ground in 16 years, the North Shore warriors established a conference standing of 3 wins and no losses. Lake Forest has one defeat on its season record, in its non-conference opening game. Wheaton's record now is 2 wins and 1 loss.

The Several Billion Dollar Question - How Well Off Are Farmers?

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (AP) — How well off is the nation's agriculture?

This question is being argued by groups having conflicting views on whether the federal government should do more or less to put more dollars into farmers' pockets. The debate doubtless will be heard in Congress when members again tackle farm legislation at the coming session.

The controversy has been fed by periodic reports of the Agriculture Department that farm income is rising by a recent document entitled "The Balance Sheet of Agriculture, 1957," issued by the Federal Reserve Board. This bulletin said farm assets increased 5 per cent during 1956.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, one of whose tasks is to defend farm policies of the administration, has been leading the "pro" debating team on this issue.

Esporting the negative has been James B. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union; Herschel Newsom, master of the National Grange, and leaders of the newly organized National Conference of Commodity Organizations.

Benson pins much of his argument on the F.R.B. bulletin relating to farm assets.

"On Jan. 1, 1957," the bulletin says, "the value of farm assets reached a new peak of nearly 17 billion dollars, about 5 per cent more than a year earlier."

These assets were listed as farm lands and buildings, automobiles, tractors, motor trucks, farm machinery and equipment, livestock, crop inventories, household goods and financial assets.

The bulletin said that most of the increase in assets in 1956 was in the value of farm lands. Of the total increase of $60,000,000 in all assets, land accounted for $6,000,000.

Newsom declares that this increase in land values is not a true increase because, he argues, farmers owned no more land at the start of 1957 than at the beginning of 1956.

Newsom and others who argue that farmers are not better off this year than last, if as well off, point to the Federal Reserve bulletin report on farm assets as reflected in farm holdings of livestock. The bulletin says these assets increased 4.7 per cent during 1956.

But the critics cite an Agriculture Department report giving an inventory of livestock on farms at the beginning of the year. This report states that at the beginning of 1957 there were 2 per cent fewer cattle, 5 per cent fewer hogs, 1 per cent fewer sheep and 9 per cent fewer horses and mules on farms than a year earlier. Only in the case of poultry was there an increase.

The increased valuation put on livestock by the Federal Reserve bulletin reflected higher market prices for animals. Newsom says the higher prices were due, in part, to inflation.

The bulletin showed little difference in the values of crops held by farmers at the beginning of this year compared with a year ago. It did show, however, that assets in the form of machinery and motor vehicles increased 3 per cent during the year. Benson concludes.

FLU SHOTS WONT AFFECT PRICE OF EGGS

URBANA—Producers of Asian flu vaccine are using incubated eggs in which to grow the flu virus. But increased use of eggs for this purpose is not expected to have an important effect on egg prices this fall and winter, reports James Roush, University of Illinois egg marketing economist.

Roush figures it this way: Vaccine producers are now able to get four or five shots from each egg they use. If every person in the United States were to get a shot, the total number of eggs required to produce the vaccine would probably not exceed 50 million. Although this sounds like a lot of eggs, it is actually a very small quantity compared with total U.S. production.

Present plans are to produce about 85 million vaccine shots by January 1. This may require using 20 to 25 million eggs, which is less than 15 per cent of the eggs produced on U.S. farms during an average day. Diverting this many eggs from the market over a period of four to five months should not affect egg prices appreciably, Roush concludes.

An acre of corn made into silage will produce twice as much beef gain as will the grain from that same acre! Bob Webb, Station superintendent, recently made this statement when suggesting a way to save late corn that is too immature for safe storage as grain.

The state average yield of about 60 bushels of corn will produce 500 to 600 pounds of beef gain. This same crop in the silo will yield about 10 tons of silage to produce 1,200 pounds of beef. Silage yields may be estimated by applying this rule of thumb: For every 6 bushels of grain yield, expect a ton of silage.

The following figures will help you to plan a silage feeding program. Each acre or 10 tons of silage will:

1. Winter 6 to 8 calves
2. Winter 4 to 5 dry beef cows
3. Fatten 2 to 3 common grade yearling steers.

Cattle Prices

With the proximity of the feeder calf sale, the talk on the Station swings to the price of feeders and to a guessing game of what the sale cattle will bring. The other day, in talking to Clarence Albritton, president of the Egyptian Livestock association, we learned that consignments to the feeder calf sale are down from last year. A strong price earlier caused many local producers to sell. However, Clarence reasons that, with good pasture this summer, these early sellers may have gained a cent or two in sale price but lost some gain that they might have had. In other words, he was saying that a $400-pound calf selling for 25¢ in August needs to weigh 435 pounds and sell for 23¢ pound in October to bring the same money.

We further quizzed some market men on the outlook for feeder cattle prices, and they doubted that prices would drop too much and suggested that feeders might as well fill their lots before cattle have been picked over, leaving the less desirable kind.

Effective Parasite Control

A sound parasite control program for sheep demands not only periodic drenching, but also phenothiazine in the salt, both summer and winter. Doctor Mansfield, Station veterinarian, says a parasite control program often breaks down because the phenothiazine salt mixture is not kept fresh and attractive. To do any good, the stuff must be eaten, and a sheep won't eat it if the mixture has been leached and caked by rain. So Doc suggests placing smaller amounts before the flock and keeping the mixture fresh and protected from the weather.

Carrollton FFA Member To Get American Degree

CARROLLTON—Robert Hoff, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hoff of Kane, has been selected to receive the American Farmer Degree at the National Future Farmers of America convention which will be held Oct. 15-18 in Kansas City. Hoff is a member of the local FFA Club of the Carrollton Community Unit High School and since his graduation has been engaged in farming with his father. There are 17,000 FFA boys in the state of Illinois and only one can be chosen for this award for each 1000 boys and the honor is decided on a basis of achievements in the field of agriculture.

Hoff will be accompanied to Kansas City by his wife, the former Becky Bechdold, who is employed in the office of Donald Allen of the National Farm Loan Association. Others who will also attend the FFA Convention are Dennis Vetter, the sectional vice president; Wayne Willenburg, the chapter secretary; Tom Anderson, the chapter vice president; Gen. Ostermann, Leonard Rawe, Gary Brannan and Guy Petty, the head of the vocational agriculture department in the local school.

FROM ALASKA TO VISIT PARENTS AT ARENZVILLE

ARENZVILLE—Mr. and Mrs. Don Nickel of Anchorage, Alaska, arrived Wednesday for a several weeks' visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nickel of Jacksonville and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kienhschmidt.

Mrs. Ida Walkers of Beardstown, Mrs. Ed Dober, Mrs. Ralph Clark and Rebecca returned home Thursday after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Sheibel and family of Janesville, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. John Waddell attended the Veiled Prophet parade in St. Louis Wednesday and also attended a three-day convention of the Photographic Society of America, of which Mrs. Waddell is a member.

Mrs. Bernice Petefish and Clyde Cooper of Jacksonville were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Cooper Sunday.

Thirty-Two Get GreenhandDegree In Carrollton

CARROLLTON—Thirty-two students of the vocational agriculture departments of the Jerseyville Community Unit High School and the Carrollton Community Unit High School received their "Greenhand Degree" at joint initiatory ceremonies held Tuesday evening in the local high school.

To be eligible to receive this degree the youth must study agriculture, have a project, be able to recite the FFA Creed and receive a majority vote of the Club members present at the election.

Receiving the degree from Jerseyville were Roger Mourning, Tom Andes, James O'Hars, Wayne McDaniels, Richard Rafton, Edwin Garrison, Clay English, Jim Kanallakan, Jim Kadell III, Bob Gillman, Billy Stahl, Billy Bartlett, Billy Duncan, Lambert Hagen, Harold Konig, Joe Allen, Ed Depper, Calvin Greene, W. E. Remm, Marion Phipps, John Fernbach, Rudy Ford, Charles McClary, Bill Bushnell and Larry Walde.

Receiving the degree from the Carrollton School were Delbert Brooks, James Duba, Larry Ganz, Charles Helton, David Jig, Bob Shannon and Will Winters.

Charles Hamilton is the vocational agriculture teacher in the Jerseyville school and the sponsor of the FFA Club there and Guy Petty holds the same position in the local school.

The members of the official board of the Business and Professional Women's Club met Monday evening at the home of their president, Mrs. Nedra Dowdall to complete their plans for the benefit card party which will be held Monday evening, Oct. 14, at the local Knights of Columbus Hall on South Main street. Tickets for same are $5.00 each.

SOME TALL EXPLAINING NEEDED

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—

Federal Court Clerk William D. Bryant returned from his vacation to find his office walls covered with pin-up pictures and autographed notes like "Welcome back, Bill, we missed you."

Stealing a jump on the office pranksters, Bryant hid the pictures in a desk drawer and substituted a note supposedly from the janitor asking that no such pictures clutter the office walls.

He was enjoying the disappointment of his fellow workers when catastrophe struck.

His wife, poking through his desk, came up with the photos.

SHORTHORN SHOW AND SALE OCT. 26

Twelve top Shorthorn herds from Pike County, Mo., and adjoining counties will consign cattle to the annual fall show and sale of the Pike County Short-horn Breeders' association to be held at the fairgrounds in Bowling Green, Saturday, Oct. 26. Thirteen bulls, thirty female lots and seven club calves will be sold. The show starts at 9:30 a.m. with Jerry Taylor, Prairie City, Ill., the judge. The auction sale will begin at 12:30 p.m. C. D. Swafford, Tulsa, Okla., will be the auctioneer.

On the evening before the sale the association will hold its annual banquet. Among the co-signors are Jess Smithers & Son of Pittsfield.

SOYBEAN CROP INCREASES LESS THAN USUAL

The corn and soybean crops developed and matured well despite a late start. Harvest is occurring simultaneously over much greater than usual areas. These developments have put strong pressure on market prices in recent weeks.

The soybean crop is a record-breaker for the fourth consecutive year. On the other hand, the crop this year apparently exceeds that of the previous year by a smaller amount than any of the three preceding crops.

The present crop was estimated by the USDA in September at 459 million bushels. Later estimates are expected to show that it will be around 20 million bushels larger than that of last year.

The three previous crops averaged about 60 million bushels more than the crop before. If the market for soybeans continues to expand as it has in recent years, it should not be difficult to dispose of this year's crop.

Prices offered recently for soybeans were about equal to the price support level minus costs of storage. Prices seem likely to rise above this floor sometime during the marketing year.

The national average support level for the 1957 crop is $2.09 a bushel compared with $2.15 for the 1956 crop.

Time For Real Concern

It is a sad fact that the United Fund campaign is falling far short of the goals established for the maintenance of the community's health and welfare agencies.

The people of Jacksonville generally are failing in their obligation to support this vital effort.

Too many citizens seem to content to let others carry the ball. Too many give niggardly or not at all.

Everyone, however, expects the Red Cross to continue its blood program and its emergency relief programs, the Salvation Army to carry on its program for the needy, and the Y.M.C.A., Scout, C.Y.O. and Junior Police organizations to fight juvenile delinquency with positive action programs for youth.

Too many people take these agencies for granted, content to accept their benefits without accepting any personal responsibility of support.

Giving through the United Fund is the ideal way to meet the combined need of these charities. If it fails, these worthy organizations will either have to curtail their work or go back to the old system of multiple drives and campaigns.

There is still time for the people to rally to the cause. The United Fund committees are determined to do everything which they can to prevent the failure of the campaign.

If there is a failure it will not be a failure on the part of the volunteer workers. It will be a community failure, a shameful loss for Jacksonville and Morgan County.

If you have not already contributed generously, do so today.

First Step Into Space

The conquest of outer space has begun. With the first man-made satellite circling the earth every hour and 36 minutes, this great dream of men has moved from the realm of futuristic fiction to tentative reality.

We cannot be less in awe of the accomplishment because Russia, the fountain-head of hostile communism, has brought it off.

This time there can be no skepticism regarding Soviet claims. A steady stream of beeping radio signals caught by receiving equipment all around the globe affirms the fact of this spinning moon launched from Moscow.

It takes some getting used to.

From the moon, the planets and the stars we get no messages but light. From the 184-pound, 22½-inch-wide satellite now coursing at 18,000 miles an hour 560 miles above the earth, we can begin to learn many things.

This first artificial moon is perhaps crude in its complement of recording instruments. More refined equipment such as will be contained in others planned by Russia and the United States will indicate much to scientists about the size and shape of our own planet.

They say that satellites whirling in orbits over long periods may tell us whether, as some scientists contend, the earth's land areas are in motion. The full nature and extent of our "atmospheric cover" may be divulged, too.

But, inevitably, men will always mark the date of Oct. 4, 1957. For that was the moment in history when it was demonstrated that they could in fact reach out to the beyond, to enter into competition—in a modest way—with the heavenly bodies we observe around us.

All scientists today are giving the Soviet Union great credit for translating hope into reality. That the Russians were first shows us convincingly that their scientific base is broad. It indicates—and this would seem to be of massive importance—that the state of their rocket development is well advanced.

Our scientists are somewhat cautious. But there is a feeling the Russians could not have launched their satellite without a rocket of tremendous power and speed. That they did suggests to some that their claim of having a long-range intercontinental ballistic missile may reflect the truth.

Should this be true, then they are indeed outpacing us in a vital field. And that would give their spinning moon major military as well as general scientific significance for all the peoples of the globe.

He who is first is not always best. But the satellite's insistent radio signals may be a reminder to us for a good time to come that, not having been first, we have a huge task ahead of us if we would try to be best.

At stake is not only man's adventure into space but the safety and well-being of his earth-bound millions.

just wait and see," Todd declared.

If there is a large-scale tourist invasion of Japan next year, the reason will be understandable. Hollywood is bringing out two pictures that present the beauties of Japan as they have never before been seen on the screen.

RKO's "Escapade in Japan" is a stunning view of the seaports, interiors and cities of the country. The plot is okay, but the star of "Escapade" is Japan itself.

On the other hand, "Sayonara" is a potent story played against the backdrop of striking scenery. It is a re-working of the "Madame Butterfly" theme, beautifully acted by Marlon Brando and Mikio Taka.

Peter Lawford wonders if this is progress.

Fourteen years ago, he was working on the MGM lot with the famous collie dog in "Lassie Come Home." Today he's back on the same lot with Asta, the talented wire-haired terrier, in the "Thin Man" TV series.

Of course, there is a difference. In the Lassie days, he was an up-and-coming young actor working at a minor salary. Even Lassie was getting more than the idea.

When we had small schools the state cut off our funds as the attendance dropped forcing us to close. It seems peculiar some of these small schools operate now as attendance centers with less enrollment than was required, making the cost per pupil much greater than before consolidation.

We feel that a careful evaluation of this system should be made by a qualified committee and needed revisions be recommended.

Do other P.T.A.'s feel as we do? If so, speak up. If enough people are interested, our educational system can be greatly improved.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mike Todd says he has the "Don Quixote" script ticked and he'll start shooting it in Spain next April.

"I found the answer to the script right in Cervantes himself," said the showman. After "Don Quixote," which he says will have a fabulous cast, Todd will make the story of Arturo Toscanini, incorporating the many operas which the maestro conducted.

Then he'll make one more picture and quit. Or so he says.

I dropped by the stage where the "Thin Man" crew is buzzing along through the first 13 of 26 chapters. Peter was carefully scouring an apartment for clues. When he finished the scene, he came over for a chat.

"It has been fun," he said, "hard work but fun. I had a lot easier time doing the 'Dear Peebles' series. Comedy comes a lot easier to me. This man in the fog" stuff is much harder to do."

But he does it well, according to the critics who have termed him and Phyllis a lively combination.

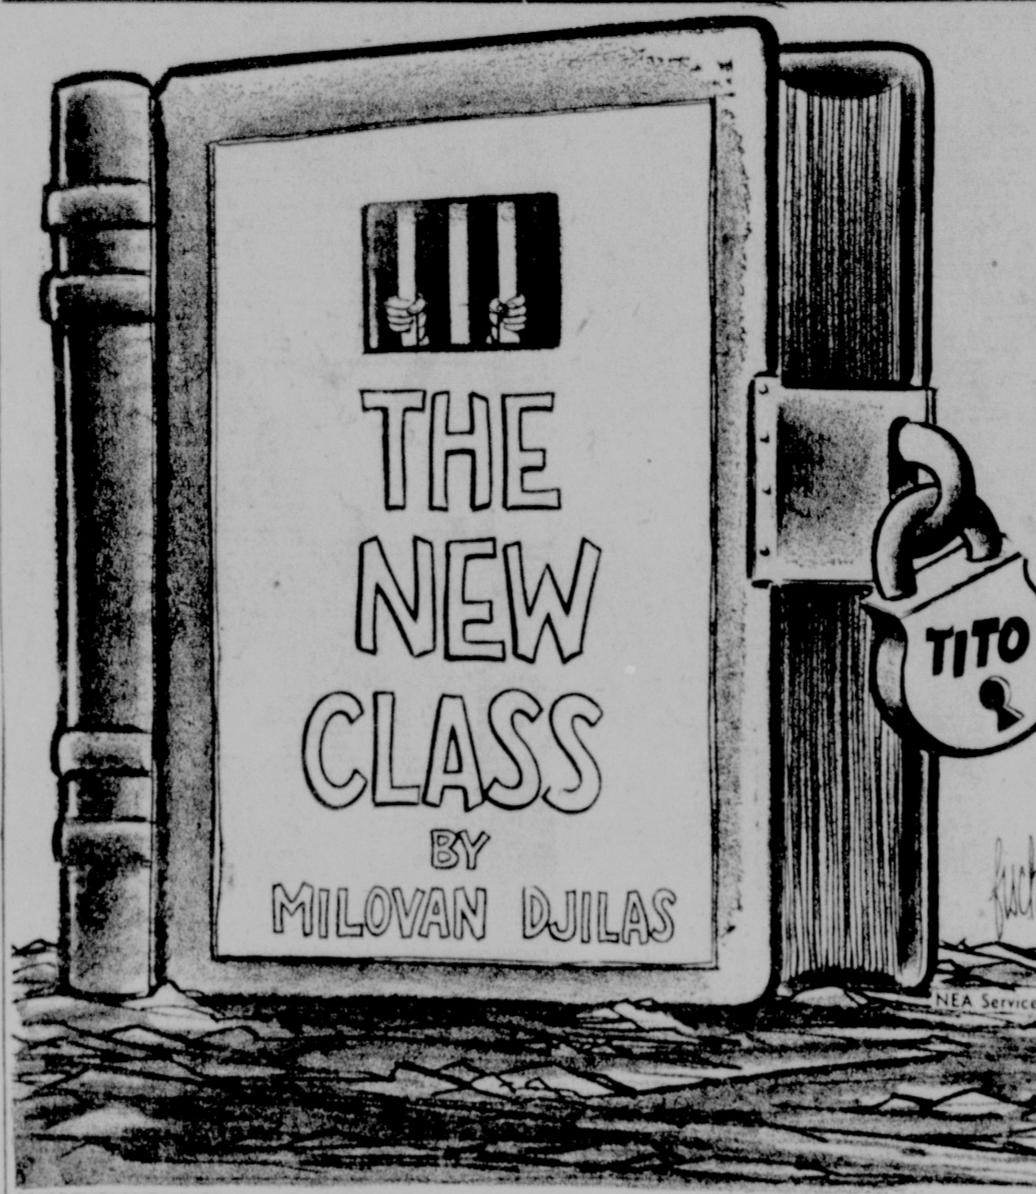

"I think we're hitting our stride now," Peter said. "We're alming more at comedy now and injecting less of the blood and mystery."

WASHINGTON (NEA)—State Department protocol officers and British officials who arranged Queen Elizabeth's visit had a difficult time reconciling White House and Buckingham Palace policy on the acceptance of gifts.

U.S. firms have offered everything from tractors to fireproof nylon hosiery for the Queen to take back.

"It would take two ocean liners to take back all the stuff offered to Her Majesty," a spokesman for the British embassy admits.

The difficulty has been trying to draw a line on what to refuse.

The official White House policy on taking gifts has been easygoing. Ike's farm in Gettysburg has numerous presents he has accepted, for example.

The Buckingham Palace policy is far more rigid. Only small gifts from individuals are accepted and only after the Queen approves each acceptance. No gifts are accepted from commercial firms.

"It would take two ocean liners to get through this just made me frank," the lady replied.

But French embassy officials weren't worried. They knew that Mrs. Charles Lucet, charming, witty wife of the senior minister, would substitute as official embassy hostess. Her clothes are always the latest creations from the most exclusive Paris salons.

In fact, a French embassy official was started at a recent cocktail party when he was asked if Mrs. Lucet would be as good a representative of the French fashion industry as Mrs. Alphonse was.

"Why, of course," he replied. "She's a French lady."

THE WIFE OF AN Air Force colonel in the Pentagon had put off entertaining her husband's boss, a two-star general, as long as possible. She hated him. Finally her husband put his foot down and the general was invited for dinner.

The afternoon of the event, the colonel's wife took two tranquilizer pills to get her through the ordeal. The pills worked fine and the woman was completely relaxed. Then, after the dessert, she turned to her guest and politely told him:

"You know, general, I can't stand you and can't for the life of me figure out why we invited you to dinner tonight."

"I've known that for a long time," the general replied, "but why have you waited so long to tell me?"

"I guess the tranquilizers I

Sometimes our movement takes us aside on byways or detours from the way that leads forward. Many of these side steps are in answer to the call of temptation instead of being caused by barriers in our paths. The tempting ways appear to be interesting or to offer momentary pleasure. When these routes are traveled to their dead ends we find ourselves at the point of no progress. We must retrace our steps with great difficulty before we can progress in a forward direction.

The way of God is clear for those who establish their goals under His guidance. The way is narrow and well marked toward Eternal Life. The way to self-destruction is broad, but lacking in ultimate self-satisfaction. Why not save our energy and go forward constantly?

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Eisenhower has said: there is no use getting hysterical.

It is to be hoped that Russia's Nikita S. Khrushchev was listening to the President's words and will heed them.

For the Soviet party boss sounds on the verge of a terrible tantrum in his latest outburst. And, however much U.S. officials may try to downgrade the Russians' rock-launched satellite, there is no doubt Khrushchev has the weapons to start World War III at any moment.

What the Soviet leader has done, in an interview with a New York Times representative, is to announce a Khrushchev doctrine to counter the Eisenhower Doctrine on the Middle East. But with this difference:

The United States, well knowing the risks, went on record at the last session of Congress as being willing to help any Middle East country which might be threatened with outside (meaning, for the most part, Communist) aggression. There was a big "if" in the declaration on which Eisenhower and Congress finally got together. It said the United States would step in only if the threat

Spinster Schoolteacher Wants Retirement Tips

BY BEULAH STOWE

"What can a schoolteacher do after she retires?" asks Miss P. M. "My pension will keep me adequately, but not elegantly, and I am afraid of having time on my hands."

Here's what one teacher did: She opened a dog-training and boarding business in a rented house and yard at the outskirts of the city. Next, she began to breed hunting dogs, naturally, are men.

Her interest in dogs, began through having pets of her own, led to developing a new business. It also led her to marriage.

One of her customers, also a dog enthusiast, asked her to marry him.

Another retired teacher placed a classified ad in the newspaper offering her services as a consultant on house plants and gardens—$1 for a half-hour consultation. Her service was successful. She made many new friends, for her clients were people who were truly interested in the same thing she was—gardening.

The same woman also began to experiment with two Japanese garden ideas: planting, landscaping and developing dwarf trees for indoor plants, and potting seeds so as to have a flowering plant in bloom indoors the year around. She reports that she has not yet mastered all the secrets of maintaining a never-ending succession of blooms, but hopes to perfect her schedule within the year.

If Miss P. M. would like to find further work to augment her income, she might take a tour of the U.S. and find areas where the school children have outnumbered the capacity of the public schools. These areas provide good prospects for a private school, which she could organize and teach, with the help of other teachers whom she could hire. (Maybe some of her retired friends.)

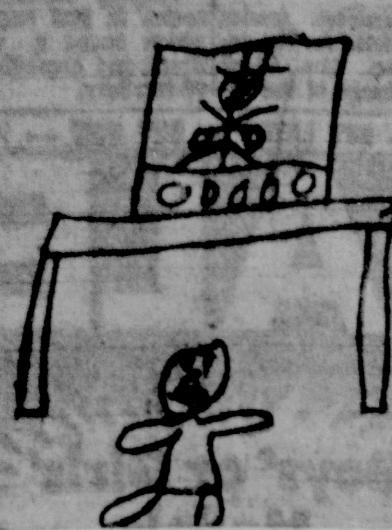

Private schools, especially in successful towns where overcrowding in the public schools has led to a split-shift day for the pupils.

Wild Flower Of The Month—

The Heath Aster

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Everywhere over the countryside the Heath-Aster is in bloom during September and October. It is one of the most abundant and wide-spreading wild asters, bringing a mist of white to a large part of the entire continent. It whitens almost every marsh and swamp, every country roadside, and both uplands and lowlands.

The Heath Aster is a simple white aster with a yellow center which seems to have caught an echo of the goldenrods which have mostly expended their golden plumes in September. Therefore we have chosen the Heath Aster as the wild flower of the month of October.

Along the roadsides, at the edges of the woods, in the pastures, along the fence rows and railroad tracks the misty heads of these asters loll and sway lazily. Sulphur butterflies, which match the little hearts of gold in the flowers, flit from one misty white patch to another. Brown and yellow bees cling to the heads and crawl from flower to flower.

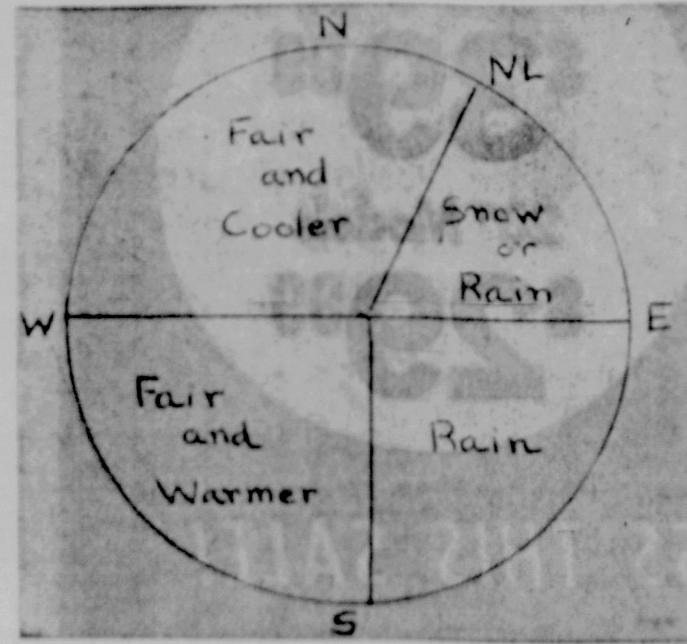

The Heath Aster arranges its small white flowers along secondary stems, which branch abundantly from the curving main stem. The whole stalk forms a bending garland of white flowers, and the entire plant is a broken wreath of little yellow-centered white flowers. Hundreds of these plants work together to clothe our world in misty white in October.

Like Indian Spirit
And the hazy whiteness of the October Heath Aster lends a sleepy enchantment to the warm Indian-summer afternoons and harmonizes with the silver floating cobwebs. Could each little white flower hold the spirit of an Indian who has come back from his Happy Hunting grounds to dance once again in the October moonlight, holding his tiny yellow candle for all the boys and girls to see!

Then there would have been millions of Indians who once danced under the October moon. Indian spirit or simple little Heath Aster, we are satisfied to name it as our wild flower of the month for October.

Fun With Weather

Did a sudden and not expected rain ever spoil your camping trip or hike? How about that snow? Did you know you'd be able to use your sled and proceed to fix it up?

You would IF you knew how to out guess old man WEATHER!

Our Uncle Sam has hundreds of stations over the entire U.S.A. whose sole job is to tell us ahead of time what weather you can expect over a wide area.

He uses barometers to measure air pressure or push, thermometers to measure temperatures, rain gauges to measure rainfall, to mention just a few special instruments.

Let's Read The Clouds
But for a given time and place you and I can read the clouds and direction of upper winds to forecast future weather.

We would know that CIRRUS clouds, very high and thin lace clouds, usually forecast rain or warmer weather in 11 to 2 days time. That STARTUS or solid grey base clouds often mean rain or weather and rain within 18 to 24 hours time. That CUMULUS THUNDERHEADS (the giant cotton balls) usually mean rain very soon if they are large and nearby or approaching from the west. And lastly that NIMBUS clouds (dark and low) make mistakes!

Now, try your luck. But remember, even expert weather men make mistakes!

If we watch the smoke rising from a chimney or observe the direction in which higher clouds are moving, we will know the direction from which the wind is coming. For instance, a westerly wind pushes the smoke or clouds toward the east and we say our weather is being brought to us by westerly winds. Remember most all weather travels across the U.S.A. from the west to the east.

Now, if we follow the chart shown here, we can roughly foretell our weather locally over a period of from eight to twenty-four hours. As you can see, a wind from the northwest would forecast a fair and cooler period for the next eight to twenty-four hour period.

Now, try your luck. But remember, even expert weather men make mistakes!

Birthday Parade And Parties

Lots Of Parties

Here are our Birthday Marchers, and when they have paraded by we have many birthday parties to tell you about!

Heads up, they're coming—

Silvan Nergenah, Concord, age 3, Oct. 12.

Carol Jean Anderson, RR 4, age 6, Oct. 14.

Below is Candy Broecker of 1106 W. Lafayette avenue celebrating her fourth birthday on the afternoon of Sept. 28 with a party for six of her little friends.

Candy's Daddy led the children in several games and songs, and then her Mommy served the birthday cake and ice cream. It was the first birthday party that Candy had ever had, and she enjoyed every minute of it.

Those present at her party were Mary Jo Cody, Danny and David Houston, Karen and Roger Thies and Bob Walton. Sadly missed by Candy was Kathie

Walton, who stayed at home with a cold.

Party For Twins

Jean and Jane, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Tuyle of Roodhouse, celebrated their joint ninth birthday anniversary with a party at their country home Saturday afternoon.

Games were played in the house and prizes awarded to Sue Sittion, Eddie Whewell and John Fraley. Following refreshments of ice cream and cake, nuts and candy, the children were given turns riding the twins' pony and then the pony and the children.

SILVAN NERGENAH

the party concluded with a hayride on which they were taken by Mr. Van Tuyle.

The guests were presented with balloons and candy for favors.

Furnishing transportation for the 28 youngsters were Mrs. F. Earl Walker, Bob Simonds, Mrs. Ralph McConathy and Mrs. Ross Manning. Mrs. Van Tuyle was assisted in serving by her sister, Miss Stella Pletkovich, Kewanee.

Party For Karen

Miss Karen Eller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Eller of Highland, will celebrate her 10th birthday anniversary this weekend at the home of her uncle and aunt, Major and Mrs. Harold Martin, at Fort Leonard Wood.

Others who will be weekend guests of Major and Mrs. Martin are Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Eller and son, Charles, of Highland and Mr.

An American Every One Should Know

Wm. Frederick Allen

By Walter B. Hendrickson

Today all of us are somewhat mixed up because we have daylight time and standard time and Eastern time and Rocky Mountain time. But really our system for keeping time is simple compared with that of about eighty years ago.

Then every town and city, and every railroad, had its own time. It was very confusing to do any travelling because one had to be continually resetting one's watch. Since most people travelled by train it was the railroads that finally did something about the situation.

In 1872, what was known as the General Time Convention was formed by the railroad operators to work out a system of standard time. This group listened to many different suggestions from scientists and other people, but rejected all of them because, for one reason or another, they were not workable.

Finally an experienced railroad man came up with an idea that would work. This man was William Frederick Allen, a trained engineer who had worked all of his life in the railroad business.

He knew so much about railroading that he was employed by the leading railroad magazine, "The Official Guide to Railways."

It was Allen's idea that the United States should be divided into four geographical areas extending north and south. He called these "time zones" and named them Eastern, Central, Rocky Mountain, and Pacific.

Everywhere within a zone there would be a standard time for all railroads. Only when a train went from one time zone to another would it be necessary for the conductors and engineers (and passengers, too) to reset their watches.

The railroad adopted Standard Time in 1883, and soon after all the towns and cities within a zone were also using Standard Time.

He knew so much about railroading that he was so experienced in everything that had to do with railroads, did his country a great service.

Or we may see the handsome sparrows of all, the Fox Sparrow, with his bright rufous-red tail and heavily streaked breast. All of these enthusiastic scratchers are on their southward migration.

Or we may detect another handsome bird by his noisy ruminating

among the dead leaves — the Towhee.

Here we shall see an elegant glossy bird: long fan-like tail black with white edges, back a jet black with a few white marks, head and throat all black, breast snowy white, and sides a bright russet. The female has a dusky brown where the male is black.

These perky scratchers stay with us by day and night, and their communion in the dead autumn leaves as yet, try again.

If you look and listen in the right places—woods and brushy spots—

you can't miss them.

Here, I'll help you fellows.

"Remember to watch the lights on your control board. Don't unfasten a thing while the red light is on."

"As soon as we land and anchor, the green light will flash. Release your safety belts at that time and wait in your cabin until you hear the 'all clear' announcement over the loud speaker. Have you got all that, fellas?"

"Roy and Andy both nodded their heads, since they were too excited to speak."

Land On Moon

The landing of the rocket wasn't much at all. Just a few short bumps, like a car going over a country road. After a moment or so the green light flashed on and the all clear announcement came over the loud speaker.

"Unhook your safety belts and proceed to the processing room."

"Roy managed to get out of his harness before Andy, so he helped him unhook his."

"Come on, slowpoke. Everyone else will be on the moon before we even get out of our cabins."

"Okay, okay," laughed Andy.

The processing room of the rocket was a busy place. All the boys in the science club were already assembled and making almost as much noise as the rocket engines at take-off.

ALLIGATOR SNAPPING TURTLE

TURTLES

By Ray Broekel

Turtles have no teeth, but have jaws which are covered with tough ridges.

All eggs are white in color, some soft, some brittle. Incubation of eggs usually lasts from two to three months, with hatching taking place in mid or late summer. In some cases the eggs remain unhatched over the winter, to hatch out the next year.

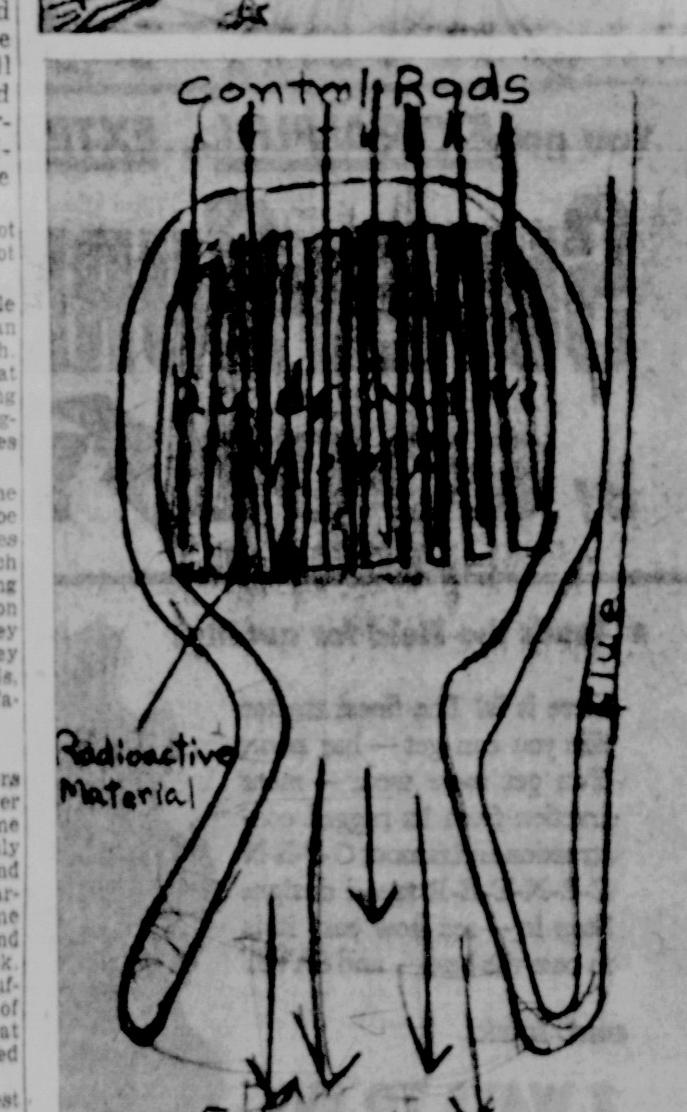

The smallest Illinois turtles are the Mud Turtles, averaging three to four inches in length. Alligator Snappers found in the Illinois River reach shell length of over two feet and often weigh in the neighborhood of 250 pounds.

Most authorities agree that turtles are mainly carnivorous; that is, they eat dead or living things. It is generally accepted now that turtles breathe by means of lungs. They have a heart which has three divisions.

A broad tongue is fixed immovably to the floor of the mouth.

Turtle Eggs
Eggs are laid in holes in the ground, soil or sand, or in decaying matter, leaves or wood. The female digs the hole with her hind flippers. The number of eggs is possibly due to the in and out breathing of the turtles—frictional contact between parts of the body, and to the gnashing of their jaw surfaces.

ROCKETS and SPAC

ATOMIC ROCKETS
By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Since chemically fueled rockets would take too long and would cost too much on interplanetary flights to be practical for trade and so forth, something faster and cheaper will be needed for these flights. One such rocket would be an atomic powered ship.

In the simplest type of atomic motor, the fuel would be pumped through tubes surrounded by radioactive material. The heat from this material would cause the fuel to boil and shoot out from the rocket's nozzle. This backward thrust would make the ship move forward.

Three fuels are most often suggested for atomic rockets—methane, ammonia or water. Although the atomic rocket might not work any better than chemical rockets, it would need only about half as much fuel to get the same speed. This is because the radioactive material takes the place of the oxidizer that is in the chemically-fueled rockets, and a small amount of radioactive material can be used almost indefinitely.

Double Speed
Passenger ships might use the same amount of atomic fuel as chemically-fueled rockets and get their passengers to their destination in half the time. Atomic fuel would have to be shielded, and even then the exhaust might carry dangerous radiation.

Next we'll tell you about SUN-POWERED ROCKETS.

Adventure On Moon

By Ray Broekel

Chapter 1: Grand Vacation

Roy Jenkins and Andy Barlow were really excited. In a short time they and the rest of the boys would be landing on the moon.

The two boys took turns peering out the passenger port hole in their cabin. They could see, beyond the fins of the rocket, the craters of the moon getting ever larger.

"Gee, what a vacation we're going to have!" said Roy, a tall, slender lad with short-cropped brown hair.

"And think of what we'll be able to tell about when we get back to earth!" exclaimed Andy as he hopped happily around the cabin on one leg. Whenever Andy, a plump fellow with freckles and blonde hair that always looked uncombed, became excited he would hop around on one leg.

Andy almost collided with the door which swung open as he was hopping past it. Lt. Jason Armond, assistant pilot, stepped in and smiled.

Landing Time Near

"You'd better fasten yourselves into your safety belts since we're going to land in a few minutes."

Working Girl Needs Nutritious Lunch

The gal who economizes on food in order to have a larger wardrobe is short-changing herself on health and beauty. This girl (left) found this out after a series of rushed, counter lunches that left her stuffed but starving because they weren't balanced meals. She decided the best way to have a hot meal in quiet surroundings at noon was to prepare her lunch at home (center). She uses wide mouth vacuum bottle for hot soup. Here, she eats her lunch in peace at her desk (right), enjoying hot food. She varies lunch menu each day and includes fresh vegetables and fruit, hot coffee.

"Sally! There's a terrific sale good looks. The beauty of shining hair, bright eyes and clear skin simply cannot be maintained indefinitely without proper nourishment."

"Of course! But I have to go to the bank first. Will you wait?"

This is a typical morning conversation in any office. Shopping and the bank! How much time do you suppose is left for lunch? Among career girls today, the term "lunch hour" is fast becoming a figure of speech.

Good health depends largely on proper food, eaten in a leisurely manner. And good food makes for skipped breakfast and bolted-down sandwiches for lunch will take toll in beauty.

It's true that a balanced and nutritious noon meal, eaten in a place where the surroundings are relaxing, will take a pretty big bite out of the weekly budget. But there is a way to get around it.

Why not, at least part of each week, take your lunch from home?

They're great aids to beauty.

The initial expense would be small. All you'd need would be a plastic sandwich box, a plastic cup for beverages and one for hot dishes, a wide-mouth vacuum bottle for hot food and a standard type for liquids.

You can this way achieve such menu varieties as stews, ravioli, beef frankfurters and beans. All they can be alternated with sandwich and soup days.

It's wise to get vegetables and fresh fruit into the lunchbox, too.

They're great aids to beauty.

Mrs. Clark Taking Reservations Of New Berlin Club

C.D. Of A. Harvest Festival Nears

Busy with plans for the Court Our Saviour, C. D. of A. Harvest Luncheon and Festival on Saturday, Oct. 19, are committees for the tasty luncheon and booths. Luncheon, a chicken casserole, will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Formaz Hall. Tickets are sold by members but may also be purchased at the door.

The top picture shows Mrs. Charles Lockman, left, who with Mrs. Floyd Sorrill, is co-chairman for the white elephant booth, effectively illustrated by the white plush elephant between Mrs. Lockman and Mrs. Elden Gruber, who with Mrs. Frank Clancy is in charge of the apron booth.

The lower picture shows Mrs. Joseph Doyle in charge of phoning Court members for help with this annual project.

The reappraisal offices have been set up in the basement of the court house in Jerseyville adjacent to the Civil Defense headquarters and this office will also be used by the Supervisor of Assessment when appointed.

Name Speaker For Special Service In Carrollton

JERSEYVILLE — William O. Nance, vice president of the Justin H. Haynes & Co. of Denver Colo., arrived in Jerseyville this week to begin the ground work for the reappraisal of property in Jersey county. He is preparing the property record cards and when this work is completed other employees of the company will be brought in for the field work.

This is the initial step taken to equalize the assessment of all property in Jersey county and also preparatory to compliance with recent legislation which requires that all counties in the state prepare a record card system, a set of tax maps and a list of all property owners' names and addresses for all real estate in the county by Jan. 1, 1959.

Shirley Slater Is Bride

MRS. JAMES CARL COPELAND

Nuptial vows were exchanged in an impressive ceremony October fifth in Springfield by Miss Shirley L. Slater of that city and James Carl Copeland of Buffalo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Slater, Springfield, formerly of Woodson, and Mr. and Mrs. William Copeland of Buffalo are the parents of the groom.

Mrs. Donald J. Finley, church organist accompanied Miss Glennie Rodgers who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly" before the wedding party entered the church to the strains of the traditional wedding processional.

The bride was attended by a maid of honor, Miss Carol Spears; Miss Shirley Downs, a bridesmaid, and junior bridesmaid Barbara Slater, her sister.

A cousin of the bride, Renee Farnsworth of Jacksonville, was flower girl and the brother of the bride, Phillip Slater, was ring bearer.

French Lace

The bride wore an exquisite floor length gown of French Chantilly lace over filmy tulle on satin made with voluminous tiered skirt over graduated hoops.

Miss Barbara Slater wore a floor length gown of orchid, identical to the gown of the matron of honor, with matching headdress of orchid tulle studded with pearls. Her head-dress was in lime green tulle studded with pearls and she carried a colonial arrangement of white mums centered with peach colored mums.

Miss Downs wore a floor length gown of orchid, identical to the gown of the matron of honor, with matching headdress of orchid tulle studded with pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white mums centered with purple mums.

Church Reception

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlor, appetiments were in silver and crystal, with decoupage pink and lime green. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The bride wore a grey suit, with navy accessories and the orchid corsage when the couple left for a trip to the Wisconsin Dells. They will reside in Springfield.

Mrs. Copeland attended Jacksonville High School and is a graduate of the Feinshand High School in Springfield. She is employed in the traffic department of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. in Springfield.

Guests attended from Canton Mo., Quincy, Buffalo, Springfield, Woodson and Jacksonville.

Attending from Jacksonville were Mrs. Gladys Crawford, Miss Judy Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Farnsworth, Miss Ronie Farnsworth, Mrs. Joseph Ingolia, Mrs. Clyde Vasconcelos, Mrs. Cleon Haskins, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest De Praties, Mr. and Mrs. Leiland Souza, Miss Glenda Souza and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Fortado and daughter.

CONFUSING THE AIR FORCE

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—William John Henderson Jr. is causing a lot of confusion at nearby McClellan Air Force Base.

There are two of them. Both are first lieutenants and members of the same squadron.

In hope of reducing mixups, one of the Hendersons, from Escanaba, Mich., dropped the "junior" from his name. The other, from Dover, N. J., dropped his middle initial. But the confusion continues:

"He still gets all my checks and I get all his bills," says W. J. Henderson Jr.

MANY WEAKNESSES MAKE STOUT STORIES

Aubrey's Brief Lives (Univ. of Michigan Press, $5.95) Scholars for centuries have rifled the Aubrey manuscripts in England's libraries and museums for salt, pepper and bawd to spice their essays and reviews.

Perhaps you have read somewhere the observation that . . . the houses that had the smallest beer had the most drunkards! John Aubrey put that down; and he recorded Ben Jonson's remark upon hearing that Shakespeare never blotted out a line in his life. Said Ben, 'I wish he had blotted-out a thousand!'

No longer must we read such lines, and countless others far more lively, at second-hand. Open this delightful book yourself and learn why you can with authority pronounce Sir Edward Coke's name to rhyme with cook; learn what the first Queen Elizabeth remembered (in an era when four-letter words were used unself-consciously) about the windy Earl of Oxford, after 7 long years; and why the young Duke of Buckingham didn't have his mind on his geometry.

Aubrey himself, seemingly overcome with the charm of his own ambition, at one place confesses, 'How these curiosities would be quite forgot, did not such idle fellows as I putt them downne.'

Idle, my foot. He had his nose in every drawing-room, bed-chamber and ale-house in the land. 'Sot that I am!' he would write on particularly FROGGY mornings-after; for it was his practice then to reconstruct the rowdy nights-before on paper, and so preserve the outrageous gossip, the personalities and the customs of his age.

That the customs were varied, and life was adjusted to meet extremes, is indicated in the fact that John Aubrey was a charter member in the Royal Society; a pall-bearer for Samuel Johnson, known to the aesthetic John Milton; friend of Isaac Walton, Sir Isaac Newton and John Dryden; intimate of Dr. Win. The first meeting of the Lafayette PTA was held on Tuesday night, Oct. 8, with a large crowd attending. The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Howard Choate. After the pledge to the flag, Ralph Heise led in group singing.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Arthur Beams. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Joe Johnson. Mrs. Noni Reid, fifth grade teacher, conducted room count won by the rooms of Mrs. Reid and Miss Marjorie Prior.

Mrs. Edward McCurdy, program co-chairman, introduced the faculty of Lafayette school and gave a very interesting resume of the background and hobbies of each one. She also introduced the Room Mothers for this year. A large group of new parents in the school, parents of first grade children and of children transferred from other schools, were asked to stand for recognition.

Mrs. Choate introduced the new officers and committee chairmen and called for reports from the committees which have been functioning.

Mrs. John Reynolds, hospital committee, reported replies to the questionnaire sent out to parents regarding source of refreshments at PTA meetings indicated a large majority favored continuing to ask mothers for donations.

220 PTA Members

Mrs. Fay Daniel, membership co-chairman, reported 220 paid members representing 124 families. Later in the meeting, Miss Hein, principal, showed a large cage ball purchased by the PTA for the boys and girls of the school in appreciation of their part in the membership drive.

Mrs. Fay Mentler, Girl Scout representative, announced Troops for the fifth and sixth grade girls but no leaders have been found for the third and fourth grade girls. Martin Hutchens, Boy Scout representative, said Denes have been organized for 26 boys but eight boys are still in need of Den Mothers. A pines was made for leaders to volunteer for both the boys and girls who are not yet organized.

Mrs. John Savole, in charge of the doll project, reported that the dolls go by Betsey McCall, Sleepy Mary, Sam and Sue and the old familiar Raggedy Ann.

One of the several special features will be a doll bride outfit.

In the luxury line will be a girl choice in hand-made little girl negligees to appear that wish to wear 'grown up' clothes.

The lower picture shows a close-up of stuffed toys surrounding Mrs. Jean Coultas, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Coultas, and Tommy Bills, the youngest son of the Robert Bills.

The Holiday Corner at the Basement of the church during and following the traditional luncheon will also include many linen articles and the ever popular Bakery Goods Booth selling only prized recipes of the women of the Association. Mrs. John Hackett is in charge of the project.

more economical washing

Suds-Miser, the famous money-saving, built-in automatic suds return system stops the waste of good suds and hot water. It can save over 2500 gallons of hot water and up to 26 boxes of soap or detergent every year for the average family of four!

"lint-free" washing

Another reason you'll have cleaner washes in the full-time, built-in Lint Filter that screens out objectionable lint and fuzz throughout washing and rinsing. It works with small loads as well as full loads, too. And, because it's built-in, it can't possibly get in your way!

2-speed, 2-cycle washing

Normal Cycle: In this cycle, the agitator speed is scientifically correct to give cotton, woolen, linen, and all "regular" fabrics exactly the washing action they need. Washing time is selected from 1 to 14 minutes.

Delicate Cycle: This special cycle washes all dainty things — even sheerest clothes — safely, gently, yet thoroughly. The agitator speed is automatically $\frac{1}{2}$ slower, the washing time shorter . . . just right for efficient loosening of soil.

Ashland Juniors

ASHLAND — The Ashland Junior Woman's Club met last Thursday evening in the library basement at 8 p.m. The Petersburg Junior club were guests of the Ashland club.

Jack Williams, well-known hair stylist from Myers Brothers of Springfield, was the speaker for the evening's entertainment. Members of the Ashland club served as models.

Hostesses for the social hour were: Mrs. Tom Walbaum, Mrs. Melvin Schoneweiss, Mrs. Marvin Martin, Mrs. Robert Newell and Miss Evelyn Farmer.

Miss Mae Atterberry had the misfortune to fall down her basement steps Sunday morning all the way and broke her right arm. She stumbled over a hasp on the top step. The steps had no railing on which to catch herself; her glasses fell across the floor but did not break. She was taken to Beardstown Schmidt Memorial hospital, where her arm was set.

IS OUR COMMUNITY ASLEEP?

Do We Want The Services Of The Youth And Welfare Agencies DISCONTINUED?

The United Fund is supported by free will gifts. What you give you give because you want to give. After four weeks of campaigning the Morgan County United Fund has raised $24,500. This is far short of what the Agencies need to run their programs for the coming year.

If we would stop the drive now this would be the amount each Agency would receive.

Salvation Army	$2352
Girl Scouts	$2117
Boy Scouts	$3293
CYO	$ 164
Jacksonville Jr. Police	$ 941
Red Cross	$7833
YMCA	$7800
TOTAL	$24,500

You can see that they would have to close their doors if we stopped now. For the Salvation Army this would mean no family aid for the coming year, no meals to the needy, possibly the loss of their building and the stopping of all activities. No Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts could go to summer camps, our boys and girls would not be under the capable leadership of fine citizens who are volunteering in the Boy Scout and Girl Scout program. The Red Cross would have to close its blood program which means every citizen of Morgan County pays for the blood he now receives free from participating hospitals. The swimming program would be stopped, home service bureau closed and many Service men now using Red Cross Services denied that aid in Morgan County. With the curtailment of the YMCA many character building activities of every nature would be stopped. Our boys and girls would be left to run the streets, while now they have a place to go and dance, skate and have good clean supervised fun. CYO asking figure is small now. To curtail it at all means the end of activities. The children of our community that now come under the influence of the Police Department through the Jacksonville Junior Police, would find their program for building good citizens practically curtailed. In other communities such as ours the United Fund Goal is met and lots of times over - subscribed. In these communities the citizens take their civic responsibilities seriously and their Welfare Agencies are well provided for. These communities are on the move, they are progressive in their outlook. If we as a group of citizens do not meet our obligations to the Youth and Welfare Agencies then we can not hope to attract good civic minded industries to our city. By supporting the Morgan County United Fund we prove to ourselves and to those around us that we are a live, progressive community meeting our civic obligations squarely.

Halloween Parade To Be Staged Oct. 31

Jacksonville youngsters can begin looking forward to the annual Halloween parade with many prizes as usual. Plans are for a "bigger and better" parade than ever.

The parade will be held on the evening of Oct. 31, moving promptly at 7 p.m.

Dr. Hans Kant and Vernon Schofield are co-chairmen of the Halloween parade committee.

The event will be sponsored jointly by the Exchange Club and Jacksonville merchants who furnish the prizes.

All children entering the parade will receive free movie tickets to theaters, in addition to special prizes which are offered for the best character makeups. Fifteen classes of contestants will be in competition for prizes.

All bands in the community wishing to join the parade are invited to contact Lettison Reid for placement in the lineup.

Additional details of the parade will be announced later in the month.

ALL'S QUIET

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—The call came over Officer John Morgan's police car radio: "Proceed to 150 Michigan St. Have report a wild marijuana-smoking party is in progress."

After investigating, Morgan radioed back: "No party here. Everything as quiet as a cemetery."

And why not? It was a cemetery.

Junior Women Hold October Meet In Concord

The October meeting of the Concord Junior Women's Club met at the home of Vashit Baise. The meeting was called to order by the president. The club pledge was led by Bernice Martin and devotions given by Orieida Anderson. Roll call was answered by 15 members. One guest, Mrs. Trudy Nierderdrach, was present.

Qualifications for a 100% club were read by the president.

The club voted to sell trick or treat candy. The selling of the candy is to support brain research, one of the state projects.

A bake sale is to be held Oct. 19 at the Kershaw Store in Con-

Housewarming For Simonds At Roodhouse

ROODHOUSE—A group of relatives surprised Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simonds and family, Sunday night, with a housewarming in their new home here.

Carolyn Engelbrecht gave a report on the 20th district board meeting held at the Dunlap hotel in September.

The district banquet was announced to be held Oct. 29 at Jerseyville.

A county federation meeting is to be held Oct. 30 at 2:15 at the Congregational Church in Jacksonville. All club officers were invited to attend.

Mrs. Everett Tuekin, district junior director, is to be invited to attend our next meeting in November.

In the absence of Mrs. Walter Atkins, 20th district parliamentarian, Mrs. Paul Vanner, editor of the Parent-Teachers magazine of Bluffs, was our speaker for the evening. Mrs. Vanner spoke on parliamentary procedure. Some suggestions given were as follows:

Start each meeting promptly; have business planned beforehand; have Roberts Rules of Order on hand at all meetings; spread the work to all club members; read the Illinois Clubwomen for suggestions and ideas and remember the Golden Rule. She also outlined the duties and responsibilities of each officer. All thoroughly enjoyed Mrs. Vanner's most informative talk.

Esther Elliott was in charge of the evening's recreation.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Vashit Baise and Dorothy Fouts.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 12 at the home of Myra Nickel.

Ladies Aid In Carrollton Names October Events

CARROLLTON — The October meeting of the Ladies Aid of the Lutheran church was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Stein, at which time Mrs. Richard Reehan, president, announced a group of activities to which the local group are invited.

A resumed missionary from Nigeria will be the speaker at the annual Mission tea to be held Oct. 17 in Carrollton. Oct. 18 will be Ladies' Day at Concordia Seminary St. Louis and the occasion is the 25th anniversary celebration of the Concordia Seminary Guild. The day will include a business meeting in the morning, a noon meal at Concordia's Field House, a program in the afternoon followed by a tour of the campus and Open House at a number of the professors' homes, and at 8 p.m. a special program will be given by the Concordia Seminary students. The Seminary College Guilds of St. Paul's College, Concordia; Concordia Seminary, Springfield; Concordia College, Milwaukee; Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Ill., and Concordia Senior College, Ft. Wayne, Ind., are among the special invited guests.

The local group are also invited for a social evening Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m. as guests of the Mary and Martha Society of the Lutheran church in White Hall. The guest speaker, Mrs. Karl Korth of Kirkwood, Mo., will speak on the topic "Our God Given Talent At Work." The women of the local church will close their month of activities with a carry-in supper to which all families of the congregation are invited and to be held Oct. 29. This will also be a reception for the new members of the congregation.

WOLF CREEK

By W. Edmunds Claussen

Copyright 1957 by W. Edmunds Claussen. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: Dear Sharadin, who had been beaten and beaten, makes his way back to the Colorado River boat where he is taking him to see the Aztec Shrine. But before he gets there, a mysterious young woman who was a passenger on the boat, helps get him aboard.

SHERRI opened her door with a touch of her shoulder, drawing him into the darkness. There he stood beside her trying to fight his weakness, feeling the sensation of her hard bunk rubbing the back of his knees. Her fingers pressed lightly against his chest until he sank downward on the bunk. A sudden light-headedness clouded his mind and he admitted now the pistol clubbing the Brays had meted out had been more vicious than he realized.

He was aware of the low sound of Sherry brushing a match at the room's end. Then her features emerged as she lit her candle. The yellow rays picked up the outline of her cheeks and mouth, making her face appear softer and more gentle than he recalled by daylight. Her black hair was a vaguely defined mass closing in behind her white skin. She smiled faintly as she brought the candle forward and placed it near the bunk. Then she returned for a china basin that stood below her mirror.

"How many did this to you?" she said low and insistently.

"Two."

"Only two?" Her glance lifted and she studied him thoughtfully.

SHE lay with his head on her pillow letting contentment creep through his bones while the rough edges of his beating drew further away.

He asked suddenly, "Where are you from?" Who are you, Sherry?"

The earnestness of his question lifted her glance. Then her look grew serious. "You aren't the only one to see the brutality of war. I've worked in cheap eating houses, as well as dirty rooming places. I've nursed our wounded in the hospitals. I suppose I'm a river girl. My father owned a boat on the Mississippi. One morning my mother went to the landing to see him off. They were both killed when a boulder exploded. I was 11 years old."

"It's not what we like."

He stared at her a moment. "Who are you trying to fool—yourself, or me?"

Then, remembering the dark shade that had touched her when she mentioned Natchez, he was sure her marriage was ended.

"You'd better leave, Dave. It's late."

It came to him that being alone in Sherry's room would do her considerable harm. And then as he stepped onto the narrow outer deck he knew in spite of Kains or any other man he would never give Sherry up.

was directly above him. There was a gravity about her eyes that failed to match the ease with which she spoke. He judged that life had not always been easy, that she had seen her dark moments and that had fanned and banked the fires he suspected could grow warm within her. She had known some trouble and suffering, but then, recalling what she had already said about fighting, he knew she was the kind of woman who never gave way to tears. She was the sort who fought back fiercely at trouble.

He reached, then, pulling her down to him. The warm softness of her kiss charged his blood with heady excitement. She resisted and then an impatient sigh fell from her and she returned his pressure. Then she broke away.

She said sharply, "It can't be like this with us."

He was grinning; the male who has just made a fresh conquest. "Regrets? Not already?"

She answered huskily, "I shouldn't have to tell you. It's not your business. I'm searching for my husband. He's somewhere—yonder."

SHE rose from the bunk, retreating from him now, reaching the room's end within a short step, and turning again to face him. She stood against the bulkhead with her hands behind her.

"You can't love him," he said softly. "I don't think I'll like giving you up."

"It's not what we like."

He stared at her a moment. "Who are you trying to fool—yourself, or me?"

Then, remembering the dark shade that had touched her when she mentioned Natchez, he was sure her marriage was ended.

"You'd better leave, Dave. It's late."

It came to him that being alone in Sherry's room would do her considerable harm. And then as he stepped onto the narrow outer deck he knew in spite of Kains or any other man he would never give Sherry up.
